The March Begins...

★ Just about 7:45 each morning of the week, the March of Time begins for our more than two thousand students. As they step from the street car or automobile, or finish their morning walk, they enter a world entirely separate from that which they leave. They enter a world that has its own march of events, many and varied. We open the door to you to march, with them, into South Side High School!

TIME OFF FOR LUNCH

AS SEASONS ROLL

PASSING TIME

RIDING ON AIR

OUT OF THE NIGHT

AS SHADOWS LENGTHEN

DAY'S END

Timekeepers ordinarily keep time. But here is one that doesn't. Mr. Snider makes time. He makes time easy or hard, long or short, for his students. Not that he is a tough old principal. He is young and we like him!

Timekeeper..

Clockwinder . . .

Figuratively, we have a clockwinder in our midst. Not that our clocks need winding. We have electric clocks that don't. But we have schools that can't run without someone behind them to give them the power to keep ticking. Mr. Merle J. Abbott, our superintendent, will keep them going, for he is just that someone who can.

now let's see what makes it tick

BY BEATRICE SCHIEBER

Strange as it may seem, we like our teachers—and stranger yet, some of them seem to like us. At least, one would arrive at such an opinion to review the record of the twenty-one who are still in South Side out of the original thirty-nine teachers. These teachers are the Misses Pittenger, Demaree, Fiedler, Harvey,

Miller, Ley, Mott, Paxton, Rinehart, and Thorne; and the Messrs. Chappell, Gilbert, Gould, Hull, Murch, Murphy, Null, Parks, Rothert, Voorhees, and Whelan.

Although the school was just newly built, a few extra-curricular activities were started in 1922. The faculty recognized the value of these activities and became quite interested in them. As a result, there are now thirty-seven clubs which cover almost every field of activity in which the student may be interested.

The breath-taking career of The South Side Times was begun on October 6, 1922, under the direction of Miss Rowena Harvey. "The Best High School Paper in the United States" offers a striking contrast to the four-page sheet of five columns published fourteen years ago. Miss Harvey is one of the busiest persons in South Side, as she is the faculty adviser of 1500 Club, Times, Totem, and Booster Club.

The first basketball team, coached by Mr. Gilbert started out by defeating Shortridge 8-7 on December 8, 1922. From that time up to the present time, South Side has always had a championship team. Last fall Mr. McClure relinquished his position as coach to Burl Friddle; and the team built up an excellent record in spite of the newness of the school and boys to Mr. Friddle.

Then, too, there is our football team which has had an enviable record under the coaching of Mr. Gilbert and Lundy Welborn. In the fourteen years on the gridiron, South Side has won seven city series championships.

Miss Patterson, who came to South Side in 1924, and Miss Smith, who came in 1931, are in charge of the G. A. A. The senior girl earning the highest number of points during her four years in high school has her name inscribed on a plaque. The G. A. A.

is the largest organization in South Side.

The art department is of invaluable service to the various other branches of school activity. Under the capable direction of Miss Ley and Miss Dochterman the classes have assisted in promoting such projects as the safety campaign by making posters. Miss Ley started the first art club in the city schools. Miss Dochterman is developing an art library for the public schools of material given by the Carnegie Foundation.

Since the introduction of public speaking into the curriculum of South Side, the enrollment in this course has grown considerably. At first there was one class with only twenty-one students, while at the present time there are four classes with an average enrollment of thirty. Since the school has not entered into inter-scholastic debating, student speaking in school, church, and civic clubs has been encouraged. Public speaking activities within the school include the semi-annual extemp contest, freshman-sophomore speech contest, and the local state discussion contest. Wranglers, a public speaking club, is conducted under the direction of Miss Dorothy Benner, and only those who have taken public speaking are eligible to join.

Several new teachers were engaged at South Side this year. Miss Mary Pocock, a new English teacher, is the first graduate from South Side to receive a teaching posidifficult task of scheduling classes. He was recently honored by being elected President of the State Schoolmen's Club.

Miss Pittenger has been with South Side since it was built. She attended Indiana University and received her B.A. degree at Columbia University. Some of her duties are overseeing all faculty committees, taking care of extra-curricular activities, organizing the health work for the school doctor, and acting as dean of girls.

Miss Alderdice came here in 1930 after graduating from Central High School and working two years at Hoagland school. She takes care of files and records, rents caps and gowns, sells invitations, takes care of locker distribution, holds money for clubs, issues school passes, and does general office work.

Miss Montgomery was graduated from South Side in 1930 and started to work here the following year. She has charge of the study hall and handles absences.

Several of our teachers have been kept busy acting as advisers for the three upper classes. Miss Van Gorder and Mr. Flint have acted as sponsors for the sophomores and aided in plans for the annual sophomore party. Miss Miller and Mr. Whelan, the junior class advisers, were in charge of the banquet, which was in November, and the prom, which was in May. Miss Fiedler and Mr. Chappell, who are in charge of the senior class, headed the plans for the fun fest and the senior dance.

Many of the teachers do odd jobs around school which greatly aid in keeping such a large institution functioning. Some of these teachers are Mr. Hull, who has charge of the bookstore, and Mr. Furst, who assists him; Mr. Parks, who takes care of the cafeteria books for all three high schools; Miss Rehorst, who helps make costumes for various projects; and Mr. Murch, who is the school bookkeeper.

tion here. Mr. Stuart Monroe, a member of the graduating class of '25, and Mr. Leslie Reeves, a former teacher at Lafayette Central, have been added during the year to the manual training department. Mr. Burl Friddle, coach at Washington High School at Washington, Indiana, for ten years, has succeeded Mr. J. H. McClure as coach of the basketball team. He has been assisted by Mr. Maurice Tudor, a former teacher at Harrison Hill grade school. Mr. Tudor takes care of athletic supplies and acts as a scout by looking over the various basketball teams.

The number of faculty members has increased in the past fourteen years from thirty-nine to sixty-nine, of which thirty are men and thirty-nine are women. There are seven teachers of science, eight of social science, two art, sixteen English, six foreign language, four manual training, three home economics, five commercial, four physical education, eight mathematics, one journalism, one public speaking, one music, and one dramatics. This remarkable staff has graduated almost twenty-five hundred students.

Mr. Snider, the principal, came to South Side from James H. Smart in the fall of 1926. He attended Ball State Teachers College at Muncie and received his M.A. degree at Columbia University. Besides being general supervisor of the school, Mr. Snider has charge of the extremely We've Spent Four Momentous Years Together!

BY GWENDOLYN HORN

When four hundred freshmen came tripping into South Side four short years ago, they were "green" to everything . . . even to the wonderful season of their life which lay before them. Gradually, their color changed until in four years they became the ripe, old, and dignified seniors they were supposed to be.

But, somehow, this doesn't fit us. Maybe we did change color, and no doubt we were freshmen of the vivid green type; but we just can't feel as pretentious, as dignified as we are supposed to be!

Together, we have passed practically identical milestones. We passed through all the first-year agonies, embarrassments, thrills, and tortures of recitations, eighth periods, contacts with dean and principal, and disheartening experiences of losing our way in the labyrinth of halls.

As sophomores, we risked calling freshmen "greenies" and acting as if we owned the school.

We proudly sauntered down the halls and received with an outward appearance of nonchalance but an inward tremor, the title of "Upperclassmen" in our junior year.

And now that we are seniors, we feel rather unnecessary, almost as if our work is done and the aspiring younger members of our school should be the ones to look up to.

Nevertheless we leave with the hope that we have upheld to the best of our ability the standards set up for us by our predecessors, but also, with another hope—that the future classes will even raise those standards.

Since our first year at South Side, our social activities have been the most joyful outlet from our compulsory duties, consisting of daily classes and study periods.

In our second year, we erased some of our superficial sophistication and became kids again at the sophomore party. The majority of us donned knee breeches, ruffled petticoats, and hair ribbons to eat all-day suckers and play "cat and mouse" and "drop the hanky." We cannot forget such joyous occasions as that.

The age of chivalry blossomed forth in full array at the Junior Prom. Instead of running around in bow ties and long curls, we became knights and ladies. All the frills and furbelows befitting a junior prom were displayed at this important event.

The event we shall remember for years to come, was the Senior Dance. It was our farewell get-together. Everyone of us now has a feeling of greatness over the fact that we have reached graduation, yet, there is that touch of sadness which comes over us when we realize that we are to be separated.

We may be forgotten by the faculty; we may be forgotten by the other classes; but we will never be forgotten by one another—For we have spent four momentous years together!

The gentleman who poses as representative of the freshman class on the preceding page is our own Jim Ellenwood at a slightly younger stage in life. The part of the sophomore—who-would-be-great—is taken by Dicky Bonsib, small brother of our editor. Maxine Rippe is the junior class representative who not only plays the part, but is the part as well.

Seniors never agree upon anything so, when we began our poll to find out who are the most popular, capable, etc., persons in the senior class, we got all kinds of answers. Most of the seniors seem to be agreed upon these, however: Don Bohl needs a "drag" with the faculty most (next to "me", quoting the ballots). Jim Ellenwood is the best boy athlete. Gwen Horn is "cutest".

Fred Nye is the most popular boy, biggest woman hater, and most bashful. Wayne Bennett is supposed to be the biggest bluffer. Marge Hower is the best girl athlete. Dorothy Crabill is the most popular girl. Ruth Adler is the most perfect lady, most versatile, busiest girl, and has the best personality. Manuel Rothberg is the biggest talker. Bud Schrom is funniest. Virginia Gardner is best looking and best dressed girl. Ed Kruse is the most handsome boy and ties for the most perfect gentleman. Mary Michaels is the most studious. Sonia Velkoff is the most original. Louis Bonsib is the most capable, most likely to succeed, and has done most for the school. Dick Helm is tied with Ed Kruse for most perfect gentleman.

LET'S SEE WHO THEY ARE AND WHAT THEY HAVE TO "CROW" ABOUT!

Class of 1937

BY BERNADETTE DYGERT

"Juniors" in a family are often apt to be neglected—but not our ubiquitous younger ones! The successors to the seniors, the present incumbents, may well look to the future with a fine record in school affairs, if past performances count for anything.

The chief executive, President "Jerry" Zehr, aided by Vice-President Ned Henslee, Secretary Virginia Fathauer, and Social Councilmen Jean Creighton, Richard Dent, and Robert Storm, had a very successful administration, finishing up with a fine Junior Prom.

The class and its leaders feel much appreciation for the willing services rendered to them by the junior class advisers, Miss Miller and Mr. Whelan. A toast to them—may they carry on.

"Carrying on" in fine style are those juniors who made the honor roll; that is, they had an average of ninety percent or above. Those who were members at mid-semester are Marion Bailey, John Bex, Billy Bichaoff, Richard Bridges, Wilson Byer, Patricia Car-

The junior class has a scholastic average of eighty-two percent. The outstanding home room, which is directed by Mr. Heine, attained an average of eighty-four percent. The members of this group are Mildred Hoff, Robert Hoffman, Elmer Hollenberg, Robert Hughes, Betty Kaade, Robert Kanning, Richard Kellogg, Helen Kelsey, Richard Keyser, Kenneth King, George Klotz, Kenneth Knox, Kenneth Koch, Andrew Kreidt, Arlene Krick, Billy Kruse, Evelyn Kruse, Joy Lachot, Howard Lake, Rosemary Lehman, Wayne Lelija, Emily Lepper, Winifred Locker, Bud Mahurin, Melvin Fuhrman, Marion Bailey, Norma Baier, Marcella Bandtel, and Dorothy Golden. As a tribute to their efforts, the home room was presented the junior scholarship plaque.

Mr. Heine deserves to be congratulated not only for presiding over a successful home room, but also for ruling over the dreaded eighth period sessions. It is he who efficiently inflicts penalties and listens to the various excuses offered. He is very capably assisted by Helen Kelsey, a prominent junior, who has much to do with everything; she faithfully keeps the attendance and absence records during eighth periods.

Every modern boy and girl wishes to keep up with the times by the Times. Many of South Side's juniors have important positions on the "Times." Ruth Garrison, serving as News Editor, was highly honored for placing first in the East Central States in a news evaluation contest; John Bex, the boy with the remarkable "gift of gab," successfully manages the business end of the school paper that merits national awards; Robert Storm held the position of editor; Leona Menze, circulation manager; Reginald Gerig, copy editor; and Lois Wyneken, star reporter. Other junior workers in the busy bee-hive, the Times Room, are Homer Miller, Ruth Berning, Joe Bell, Marjorie Meyer, Peggy Kilpatrick, Charles Geyer, Louise Closs, Ruth Goeglein, Jessie Ellen Zollars, Betty Jeanne Bond, Mary Jane Campbell, Dorothy Golden, Mildred Hoff, Marie Winkler, Dorothy Hagerman, Mildred Close, and Mike Mettler. Soon South Side will look to them to bear the heaviest burden of the paper.

Many juniors evidently started out with some remarkable aspirations, for they have already become members of the 1500 Club and are earning pins. John Bex has the fine record of already possessing the highest pin award, a gold-jeweled one. Helen Kelsey, Ina Claire Chappell, Ruth Garrison, Leona Menze, and Bob Storm have earned silver pins. Those receiving bronze pins are Ruth Berning, Lois Wyneken, Helen Walbert, Reginald Gerig, John Jackson, and Emily Lepper. A student's membership to 1500 Club indicates that he has served his school paper exceedingly well.

Great enthusiasm is also found on the field of sports. Both our stronger and weaker sexes seem to have caught the modern "sporting air."

The large junior membership in the Girls' Athletic Association proves that there is a great deal of interest felt in sports. Those junior girls who participate in the sports including baseball, basketball, hockey, and tennis, are Dorothy Aldridge, Anna Marie Baumgartner, Ruth Berning, Betty Beyrau, Betty Bond, Helen Chandler, Helen Clark, Mildred Close, Lou Closs, Jeanette Crum, Edna Disler, Dorothy DeHaven, Irene Ehlinger, Dorothy Foltz, Ruth Goeglein, Marjorie Gould, Marjorie Green, Annabelle Haines, Betty Harnish, Helen Jumcke, Mary Ellen Kilpatrick, Loretta Krauss, Evelyn Kruse, Winifred Locker, Leona Menze, Marjorie Meyer, Louise Phillips, Margaret Ruhl, Margery Ruhl, Dorothy Scheele, Ada Schuelke, Enita Snavelly, Bernice Springer, Barbara Von Gunten, Marie Winkler, Thelma Erwin, Betty Stoltz, Geraldine Dush, Ida Mae Millberg, Mary Connell, Forrestine Valentine, Mildred Hoff, Mary Louise Lankenau, Pauletta Steinbarger, Claudine Wells, Lois Wyneken, and Sue Wallace.

Those junior girls who are exceptional in sports are Ruth Berning, secretary of the Letter Girls; Leona Menze, secretary of G. A. A.; and Enita Snavelly, manager of sports. Our junior athlete, Margaret Ruhl, also deserves mention here for her fine tennis record which includes the championship. To Betty Harnish, her runner-up, congratulations are also in order. In the doubles contest, Margaret Ruhl and Leona Menze carried off the honors with Marjorie Ruhl and Winifred Locker offering them a fine battle.

The junior boys in sports are naturally the center of much interest to those who are not graduating this year, for they are the boys who will fight our athletic battles next year. We look with keen interest to the football, basketball, and track participants. Those juniors in football are Jim Dern, Don Faux, Bob Miller, Henry Brandt, Bud Feichter, Chuck Bentz, Ben Woodhull, Kenneth Miller, Nelson Miller, Dave Rendleman, Ned Henslee, Bill Kruse, Dick Bridges, Floyd Menze, Bob Strawbridge, and George Lahrman. Track participants are Bud Feichter, Charles Stone, Ben Woodhull, John Staley, Bob Miller, Jim Dern, Albert Hinton, Arran Schoenefeldt, Ned Alexander, Nelson Miller, Tom Makey, Kenneth Miller, and Bill Kruse. Two Juniors—Don Reichert and Bob Budde—deserve praise for the excellent basketball accomplishments.

Speaking of junior stars, one cannot overlook our junior "speaking stars." Keep up the good work in public speaking activities, Ruth Garrison, Richard Rastetter, Vernon Miller, Leona Menze, and Helen Kelsey.

Many juniors also contribute their services in the music department. Deserving mention are Marceile Miller, Donald Sparkman, Charles Thorne, Glen Gregory, Georgianna Jones, Peggy Kilpatrick, Ruth Rehm, Donald Hickman, Clarence Buesking, Eileen Meyer, Donald Schafer, Richard Dingley, Martin Bohn, Walter Jackson, Jean Meyer, James Kelso, Harry Ertel, Marcielle Bandtel, John Lyons, Rodney Deihl, Dick Snook, Dick Rastetter, Evelyn Lehman, Margaret Reed, Edward Archer, Walter Cook, and Bill Nickerson.

Among the fine arts is dramatics. Miss Suter is South Side's very capable drama instructor of a large group of our students; those interested juniors members of S. P. C. are Dorothy Aldridge, Anna Marie Baumgartner, John Bex, Dorothy Golden, Mary Louise Lankenau, Charles Hart, Emily Lepper, Marjorie Meyer, Sally Rea, Constance Schultz, Leona Menze, Elizabeth Lickert, Elinor White, Forrestine Valentine, Jack Hargan, Vernon Miller, Bill Schafer, James Dern, Richard Gebert, Rosemary Shea, Tom Sellers, and Howard Kutsch. Congratulations, juniors, for such a fine number of dramatists. It is well to get an early start in this field.

The Junior Banquet and Prom are two very prominent affairs which stand high in the social activities of the school in general. In former years, these affairs were held on the same night, generally in May; this year, however, a new custom of having the banquet in November has been started. On November 22, the juniors held this banquet, a "Pumpkin Pow Wow." One hundred ninety-five attended as "injuns." The decorations were in keeping with the theme of the affair. The lights in the cafeteria were covered with black and yellow cardboard shades covered with cellophane. The center pieces on the table were attractively hollowed-out pumpkins filled with fruit.

Speakers at the banquet were given titles coinciding with the theme, "Pumpkin Pow Wow." Merle Abbett spoke as "Gitche Manito;" R. Nelson Snider as "Mud-jekeewis;" Reginald Gerig and Kathleen Witmer as "Cando Wankiwa." Leona Menze acted as "Prophet of the Nation." "Reading the Totem" was given by Vernon Miller and "Words of Wisdom" by Miss Pittenger. Clever entertainment in the form of an amateur hour was given by Helen Gray, a dancer; Donald Sinish and William Schafer, dramatists; Maxine Rippe and Bob Augsburg, singers; Donald Sparkman and Company, strolling players. Walnuts resembling the faces of Indians with crepe paper feathers, clever programs, and a pumpkin booklet with songs written by a senior, Bernadette Dygert, completed the decorations.

The juniors chose "Southern Cruise" for the name and theme of their Prom held May 1 in the school gymnasium. Music for the dancing was provided by The Baron of Blues.

Decorations in keeping with the theme of the dance were most clever and effective. Those on the dance floor were on the deck of a huge ship looking out to sea, which was realistically inhabited by schools of fish, groups of sea gulls, and sailboats here and there. At one doorway was placed a lighthouse surrounded by rocks. The orchestra was made to look very much a part of the ship; in front of it was a binnacle and wheel. A fish net of blue crepe paper hung over the ship. A ship's lantern, suspended in the center, illuminated the ship whose gay crews were looked down up by the night sky filled with stars. Delightful favors were given to the guests on this "Southern Cruise." On the cover of these program-favors, a lighthouse was pictured with a sailboat sailing jauntily by. The sailboat was an attractive dress pin; the deck of the boat is ivory, some having gold sails and others silver. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. Merle J. Abbett, Mr. and Mrs. R. Nelson Snider, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bex, Mr. and Mrs. L. Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Dent, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Class of 1938

BY ROBERT HARRUFF

South Side finds a use for everything—even the sophomores. South Side sophomores pop up in most unexpected places—on the Times, in dramatics, in all sorts of school groups. Among the sophs can be found athletes, yell-men, tap dancers, and even a stray master of ceremonies.

The quality of any group is reflected in its officers. The class of 1938 evidently is fine, for it has excellent leaders. John Hines, a popular basketball star, was chosen president of the class. Julia Crabill, vice-president, ably assisted him in his executive duties. Paul McConnell performed the secretarial work. Joan Bonsib, Barbara Raymond, and James Roth comprised the social council. Miss Pauline Van Gorder and Mr. A. Verne Flint enthusiastically and capably advised the executive committee on all class activities.

The annual sophomore party was especially enjoyable this year. The class officers and their committees, with the unflinching assistance of the advisers, worked hard. Their efforts were well repaid, for the party will remain unforgettable in the minds of those who attended.

Scholarship is the first and most important requisite. No pupil should work for merely grades, but his success is generally measured by them. Thirty-two students earned average grades of ninety percent or over. These honor pupils are Joe Bell, Joan Bonsib, Morris Boyce, Ina Claire Chappell, Helen Cox, Frances Craig, Phyllis Culver, Oscar Eggers, Gwen Everson, Betty Garton, Ruth Gerber, Lillian Gunzenhauser, Evelyn Heine, Ruth Henline, John Hines, Jack Horn, LaVerne DeKeel, Joan Kennedy, Harold Krauskopf, Elizabeth Linhart, Helen C. Meyer, Bob Schaaf, Geraldine Schaefer, Norman Stalter, John Thackery, Marjorie Turner, Robert Weil, Betty Lee Wilson, Kathleen Witmer, Viola Yanney, Martha Zelt, and Clifford Zieg.

formed this year to cope with the increasing traffic problem, had a number of sophomores among its members. This council promoted poster campaigns, student assemblies, and talks in the interest of greater safety. The sophomore members were Jim Phelps, Ina Claire Chappell, Beatrice Fudge, Hollis Logue, Hilda Spangle, Martha Ann Bacon, Natalie Brennan, Mary Nicolai, Dwight Frost, Ann Hull, Dick LaMar, Elizabeth Ann Neff, and Jack Stumph.

Many of the second-yearlings entered journalistic pursuits by working on the Times staff. Several of these have earned membership in the 1500 Club. They are Helen Cox, Don Helm, Joan Bonsib, Ina Claire Chappell, Phyllis Culver, Beatrice Fudge, Leslie Johnson, Betty Pugh, and Betty Lee Wilson. Others on the Times staff are Bob Schaaf, Joe Bell, Joan Kennedy, LeVerne DeKeel, Oscar Eggers, Betty Garton, Betty Davenport, Frances Craig, Mervyne Bohne, Martha Zelt, Vivian Woods, Barbara Arney, Ruth Henline, Lillian Guntzenhauser, Ann Peters, Martha Ann Bacon, Eleanor Vesey, Julia Crabill, and Margaret Gross.

Ever fascinating, dramatics has enticed future stage and screen stars from the class of 1938. Dramatic pupils must take one semester of class work before they are eligible for initiation in the Student Players' Club. No credit toward graduation is given. Student Player members are Martha Zelt, Marjorie Turner, Joan Bonsib, Beatrice Fudge, Billie Mauk, Dalton McAlister, Ann Winters, Betty Pugh, Martha Ann Bacon, Elizabeth Lickert, Tom Sellers, Margaret Ann Ruckle, Ann Peters, Oscar Eggers, Betty Lee Wilson, Marjorie Mitten, Elizabeth Ann Neff, Arno Schelper, Eleanor Monesmith, and Dick Kaiser.

"Speak effectively. Rise above the babble of the crowd." This is the slogan of a well-known radio program. The public speaking department of South Side helps students do this very thing. In addition to regular classes, numerous speaking contests are sponsored. One of these is the Freshman-Sophomore speech contest. The six sophomore winners were Leslie Johnson, Allen Garrison, LaVerne DeKeel, Kathleen Witner, and Dalton McAlister. These and the frosh winners later competed in a final contest. Dalton McAlister also won the right to represent South Side in the annual city-wide contest sponsored by the Rotary Club.

The decorations for the annual Wranglers' Dance were in charge of a sophomore, Ann Winters, this year. The theme was "Midnight on Manhattan" and Ann and her committee very effectively decorated the room in this motif. Some sophomores assisting her were Dalton McAlister, Ina Claire Chappell, Marjorie Turner, Alice Jean Karn, Mary K. Connell, Maria Haven, and Nancy Lou Wermuth.

Sophomore boys were more prominent in varsity athletics than ever before. Several have already developed into exceptional players, and many others are destined to become stars. Those who were necessary to the basketball organization are John Hines, Carl Hall, Harold Kitzmiller, Earl Kramer, Dick Frazell, Lonnie Kirtz, Frank Belot, Dave Howell, Dave Stoner, and Don Berry.

THE TOTEM 1936

As usual, intramural sports called many boys. Many of them were especially outstanding.

Cheer leaders sprang up in abundance in the course of the year. Oscar Eggers, Paul McConnell, Dick Kowalski, and John Leach have begun to learn to inject pep into rooters at the games. They are already quite popular, and there are signs of bright futures for them.

Dalton McAlister is prominent in still another activity. He acts as master of ceremonies at assemblies, making announcements, introducing speakers, and amusing the students with his witty remarks.

All kinds of activities interest members of the class of 1938. Two popular dancers are Jacqueline Hench and Virginia MacNamara. They charm audiences at tea dances, assemblies, and club meetings with their ability and grace.

Sports have called a larger number of girls than has any other organization. The Girls' Athletic Association is to further sports activities in South Side. Basketball, volleyball, and dancing are only a few of its activities. A letter is awarded when an individual has earned 1500 points. Due to the high standards now in force, it is practically impossible for a girl to earn her letter while a sophomore. Nevertheless, several are quite active and will have them soon.

tie Lou Coats, Marjorie Crago, Frances Craig, Martha Crum, Delores Crumrine, Betty Davenport, Betty Eisenacher, Dorothy Elfner, Dorothy Ellenwood, Margaret Eser, Helen Forker, Ruth Gerber, Betty Jane Griffith, Joan Gunter, Evelyn Habig.

Stalter, Ruth Steinbarger, June Telley, Clara Thompson, Mildred Trautman, Vera Walker, Marjorie Wehmeyer, Betty Williams, Viola Yanney, and Barbara Raymond.

This sophomore class deserves the greatest compliments on its achievements. It has set new records for being an all-around good group. The students that compose it are a number of hard-working people. They tackle their problems with enthusiasm. Every progressive enterprise finds their willing and capable assistance. They know their weak points and are ever trying to improve them. Generally speaking, they are not a group of egotistical, self-engrossed pupils, for they are eager to co-operate.

This fact is unusual. Sophomores are, according to high school tradition, supposed to acquire the "big head" this year. But not this bunch of sophomores they had the big head long ago,—ahead of the rest; they got it when they were freshmen!

Class of 1939

BY MARY MARTHA HOBROCK

As time has marched on, the centuries have brought to this world many people. Some have brought fame to themselves while others have just trudged along the common road. The year of nineteen-thirty-six has brought to South Side a group of fresher, greener, and peppier freshmen than ever before.

Club work has not taken up all of their time, however, because our frosh have a very fine record in their scholastic work. An average of ninety or above must be reached before a person may have the privilege of being on the honor roll, and fifty industrious boys and girls have worked hard in order to gain the honor. In this list we find Ruth Bade, Ernest Bailey, Helen Banks, Joe Bex, Andrew Bremer, Marjorie Clapp, Betty Daniels, Gwendolyn DeWeese, Janice Dryer, Marion Belle Ehle, June Enoch, Jerry Fabian, Helen Faux, Donna Fautz, Richard Gentis, Beverly Ann Griffith, Margaret Gross, Joan Gunter, Anna Marie Hausman, June Holzworth, George Horner, Phyllis Kaiser, Ruth Kaiser, Sophia Kilok, Anne Lou Kowalski, Evelyn Kruse, Mary Lampton, John Magley, Nadine Mueller, Betty Neeb, Margaret Null, Velda

Oppenlander, Florence Oransky, Bill Peters, Kathleen Romer, Marjorie Rapp, Dela Rauner, Eddie Reeves, Eugene Schmidt, Warren Scheuler, Ralph Thompson, Henry Velkoff, Eleanor Vesey, Janet Warren, Jean Weaver, Richard Weaver, Charles Will, and Leon Yaggy.

The freshmen have also gained another honor by winning the plaque for the highest average of the entire school. Miss Hemmer's home room won this honor for the freshmen with the average of 6. Those students who are members of the winning room are Mildred Franz, Rena Foster, Harold Fremion, Frank Harp, Jack Gross, Vivian Gebhart, Donna Fautz, Dixie Lee Hanna, Ralph Hamilton, Betty Hambrock, William Hall, Dorothy Voght, Marjorie Funk, Roger Harflig, Charles Hall, Lois Hageman, Virginia Ann Gruber, William Fremion, Beverly Ann Griffith, Maxine Greiner, Bernita Gregory, Richard Goshorn, Herbert Glass, Willard Gibson, Robert Gerke, Dorothy Gerdom, Gilbert Gerbers, Anna Gerig, Richard Garton, David Fyock, and William Fabian.

THE TOTEM 1936

"marching on" to success are the Girls' Athletic Association and boys' intramural sports. These two clubs have contributed, beyond a doubt, their full share of happiness to our class of nineteen forty. The G.A.A. offers many different sports for the girls. Speedball and tennis are the favorite sports in the fall, while volleyball, basketball, and tumbling are usually the "tops" in winter. In spring, baseball and track are of the foremost interest in the minds of the "athletic minded." The girls who have faithfully participated in sports this year are Eileen Huston, Mary Hennen, Imogene Fabian, June Enoch, Catherine Burrell, Dorothy Braun, JoAnne Bradley, Marcella Brackmen, Betty Bolyard, Dorothy Bloemker, Helen Jane Blanks, Vera Jane Wells, Owen Roberts, Frieda Schubert, Sara Smeltzer, Vera Berning, Joan Korte, Juanita Likens, Delores Menefee, Virginia Menze, Nadine Mueller, Mary Moffett, Pauline Molin, Tribby Mueller, Betty Minneker, Mary Melching, Sara Meily, Norma Marlin, Betty Ellingwood, Mary Griffith, Helen Guipinger, Betty Neeb, Virginia Porter, Margery Papp, Della Rauner, Lois Rea, LaVerne Reed, Doris Reinking, Mary Rison, Dorothy Ringinberg, Thelma Roberson, Margaret Wittmer, Clara Wanderly, Imogene Wright, Olive Zagr, Marian Oberkiser, Velda Oppenlander, Katherine Patterson, Pauline Oetting, Marjorie Wallace, Marcia Steir, Mary Straley, Marjorie Stalter, Mildred Thayer, Nancy Valiton, Edna Volz, Jeanette Warren, Betty Daniels, Marjorie Craig, Betty Crune, Janice Cross, Wilma Carrier, Donna Dennis, Marjorie Clapp, Mary Armstrong, Mildred Franz, Rena Foster, Vivian Gebhart, Dixie Lee Hanna, Betty Hambrock, Dorothy Voght, Marjorie Funk, Virginia Ann Gruber, Beverly Ann Griffith, Ruth Kaiser, Phyllis Kaiser, Luella Liff, Alma Korte, Rosela Keehler, Ethelda Koch, O'Lily Kensler, Mary Jane Kelly, Mary Lampton, Velma Lehman, Eileen Hoffman, June Holzworth, Doris Hilbush, and Evelyn Kruse.

The boys who do not go out for varsity sports can easily get their "daily dozen" by participating in the intramural sports. Mr. Briner has capably organized the boys into tennis, football, volleyball, baseball, handball, wrestling, and boxing teams. The freshman boys who are interested in intramural sports are Robert Miller, Calvin Stocks, Kenneth Warren, Lewis Davis, Albert Ferguson, Russell Crumrine, Jack Gross, Charles Hall, Roger Haefly, Owen Jenkins, Maurice Lehman, Elroy Miller, Arthur Miller, Keith McPherson, Luther Hirshy, Leonard Weinraub, Kenneth Zuber, Andrew Bremer, Arnold Flaig, Robert Ferguson.

Varsity competition has also taken their stars from the frosh. Ray Speaker easily made the varsity basketball team. He played in almost all of our games and was on sectional tournament "ten." Ray has a bright future ahead of him in basketball because of his speed, accuracy, and good guarding. Harrison Hill gave South Side a grand player this year in the form of Jim Glass. Jim came to South Side in February and immediately went out for basketball. He made the varsity and like his teammate, Ray Speaker, he was included on the tournament squad.

It would almost seem as if sports were the only interest of our industrious freshmen; but there are many other activities which beckon the interests of our "younger" ones. Miss Benner sponsored a Freshman-Sophomore Speech Contest which took the interest of many of our freshmen. Those freshmen who participated in the finals are Joe Bex, Karl Goebel, Allen Garrison, Janice Cross, and Frieda Schubert.

Journalistic recognitions are also in store for many of our "youngsters," and the Times has already appreciated their ambitions. Fritz Lohman, Eddie Reeves, Eleanor Vesey, Margaret Gross, Lois Rea, Florence Oransky, Marjorie Lou Wickes, Janice Cross, Betty Jaebker, Lorraine Iba, and Marjorie Wallace have generously contributed their services to the Times.

In the last few years the music department of our school has improved a great deal, and the interest of our pupils has been the inspiring motive. Mr. Wainwright has made the department very interesting and offers many opportunities for those people who are interested in music. There is an unusually large number of freshmen who showed interest in music this year. The band, orchestra, and glee clubs have had the services of the following freshmen: Morton Nahrwald, James Hume, Randolph Jacobs, Dorothy Hall, Shirley Carman, Emilou Allendorph, Dorothy Amstutz, Bryce Augsburg, and Bruce Bradbury.

Among the other clubs in South Side there are many which are open to freshmen. Both boys and girls who are interested in their future in South Side have the opportunity to join many various and interesting clubs. The Meterite Club is open to 9B, 9A, and 10B girls who like and enjoy the study of literature. Girl Reserves are also represented among the younger girls by the U. S. A. Miss Kelley and Mrs. Welty are the advisers for this club which is composed of 9B, 9A, 10B, and 10A girls. Girls who are interested in home-making are encouraged to join the Wo-Ho-Ma Club, which specializes in cooking and sewing. The younger boys have formed the Torch Club and are under the able supervision of Mr. Sterner. There are also clubs which are open to both boys and girls. The most popular of these are Rifle Club, Travel Club, Junior Math, Wranglers, and Art Club.

In this large group of freshmen there are a few outstanding ones who are leading their class in both scholastic and extra-curricular activities. Joe Bex, the little brother of John Bex, has followed in the footsteps of his brother. Joe is an honor roll student and is also actively engaged in Times and music work. His imitations of many famous people are well known throughout the entire school—but perhaps he is best known in public speaking work. He won the Declamation Contest, in which he competed with upperclassmen.

Freshmen usually think that their year has been the hardest they will ever experience in high school. A sophomore thinks his year the hardest, too. But whether their hardest year is ahead or behind them, this class of freshmen has been a fine one!

CLUBS .. DANCES .. PROMS .. ACTIVITIES

THROUGH THE YEAR .. PARTIES

They Get Out And Push

BY HARRIETT YAPP

Take an ice cream bar, one bag of popcorn, some crepe paper, a dance, and a lusty yell; and what have you? The Booster Club! As the name infers, it boosts the school.

There are five separate divisions of the club. Miss Rowena Harvey is caretaker of the treasury funds and general chairman of the advisers. Other faculty members are Miss Gertrude Oppelt, Miss Mary Helen Ley, Miss Nell Covalt, Mr. Albert Heine, and Miss Alice Patterson.

The tea dances are one source of income for the club. These dances have as their object not only the collecting of dimes, but the casting aside of dismal gloom and the replacing of it with carefree joy. Students who attend the dances are carried far into the land of rhythm by the school's own orchestra, organized in the fall semester.

Those who attended the dances this year received clever favors on special occasions. For instance, in the colorful autumn, candy suckers were given as favors; at Christmas, chocolate Santa Clauses chased gloom; on Valentine's day, colorful valentines with lollypops inserted were distributed. Miss Gertrude Oppelt was the faculty adviser and general chairman of the tea dances; other members of the faculty took turns at chaperoning. Her student committee for this year was comprised of Virginia Vesey, deceased; Rosemary Lehman, Harriett Yapp, and Ruth Garrison.

Another source of income was the concessions, dedicated to the proposition that human appetites are never satisfied. This committee was headed by Miss Nell Covalt, assisted by Miss Mary Pocock. Trudgers of the cinder path during the football season sold many delicious morsels, which won not a few hearts—but a few stomachs. Cream puffs were a new attraction for the athletic season. Candy, ice cream bars, taffy apples, Coca-Cola, gum, and popcorn were also on sale.

An artistically inclined wing of the group has spent many hours after school and on Saturdays to make the gym, the stadium, and the banquet tables attractive. Its faculty adviser was Miss Mary Helen Ley. It met early each Saturday morning. It also distributed favors, such as balloons and pompoms at city series games. Besides decorating the gym, it was the committee's duty to provide decorations for the Lettermen's Banquet and the National Honor Society Banquet. The committee has gone hungry and stayed till dark many times to provide attractive decorations. Robert E. Lee, Georgianna Jacobs, Anna Bremer, Ann Hull, Virginia Greiner, Evelyn Kruse, and Betty Wolf comprised this industrious group.

Yell leaders, under the direction of Albert Heine and Miss Alice Patterson are another part of the Booster Club. They boost school spirit and pep by leading yells and presenting skits and songs. One of the newest yells is "Rain and Thunder."

The yell leaders this year were: Clifford Schrom, captain; Dave Stegar, Phil Green, and Bud Mahurin. They were assisted by underclassmen yell leaders during the year.

Several members of the concession committee arrive an hour before each game to establish stands in their proper places and to supply them with the delicious bits stored in the Booster Club room. Bryce Minier and John Bex were in charge of these tasks. Jack Geiger and Ray Ballweg were the poppers of the Coca-Cola bottles, and Jim Sweet and Joe Bex guarded the ice cream bars. Cream puffs were sold by Maxine Mariotte and Maxine Borchert. George Anne Martin's workers popped delicious salted and buttered popcorn. The candy committee was in charge of Mildred Foellinger and Ann Abbett, assisted by Helen Kelsey, Ruth Garrison, and George Anne Martin.

The activities of the year were climaxed by the two annual spring banquets. The tables for the Lettermen's banquet were attractively decorated with green and white checked covering, diamond-shaped programs, candles, flowers, and clever place cards. These place cards were in the form of little figures made of wire pipe cleaners. The head was a picture of the guest who was to sit at that particular place.

The theme of the National Honor Society banquet, which was held on May 14, was inspired by Rudyard Kipling's poem, "The Glory of the Garden." This poem was printed on parchment scrolls. The programs were printed in little booklets with a picture of a garden on the cover.

Meter-Riting Made Simple

BY MARJORIE CARTWRIGHT

Girls usually like most their English courses. So, we can understand why the Meterite Club is so popular with its freshman members.

The reason is simple. Meterite club is fun! If you don't believe it, let's investigate it right now by reviewing its many activities of the past year.

Another successful year has passed for those young inspired grammarians, the Meterites. Ever since the organization of the group in 1925 by Miss Myra Esarey, the club has increased more and more each year until it is now one of the most active groups in South Side. Miss Susan Peck became the adviser in 1929. This popular group, being a literary one, uses all types and phases of literature as the themes for their meetings.

Betty Pugh, president; Phyllis Geller, vice-president; Ruth Bade, secretary; Ann Peters, treasurer; and Lillian Gunzenhauser, program chairman, are the officers of Meterites who helped to make the first semester one of the most interesting ever.

During the last semester, the girls were especially interested in screen productions. They reviewed many shows produced from literary books. A few of the productions reviewed were "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," "Small Town Girl," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "Follow the Fleet," and others. From these productions the girls gave interesting discussions on the story, songs, characters, costumes and setting of the plays. Janice Dryer, Betty Daniels, Mary Lee Hines, Eileen Hoffman, Anna Lou Kowalski, Mary Lou Moffat, and many other girls took part in these discussions. At one meeting Betty Neeb gave an interesting talk on "Famous Film Children." "Hollywood Extras" were also discussed by Dorothy Hall.

Several plays were also written, directed, and given by the girls. During the farewell meeting in January, each of the three sections gave a short play. The 10B girls gave a play entitled "A Proposal on Grandmother's Day," written by Jeanette Joyce and directed by Phyllis Culver. Lillian Gunzenhauser, Ruth Henline, Martha Ann Bacon, and Helen Cox were the players. "Dot Entertains" was the play given by the 9A girls. Dorothy Hall directed it and was also a player with Mildred Brett. Jeanette Joyce was the author of the 9B girls' play. It was entitled "Aunt Jane Visits School" and was given by Florence Oransky, Betty Neeb, Betty Showalter, Margery Rapp, Peggy Bacon, Lois Rea, and Lorraine Iba. Margaret Null directed the play.

The farewell parties are always of great importance to the girls. At these services the outgoing 10B girls are honored for their work in Meterites. The mid-term farewell party was held in January and proved to be a big success. At this meeting speeches were made by Miss Peck, adviser, Joan Bonsib, who gave a farewell talk for the 10B girls, and by Margery Rapp, who gave the response for the 9B and 9A girls. Awards were given at this time to Helen Cox, Lillian Gunzenhauser, Betty Lee Wilson, Joan Bonsib, Betty Pugh, Ann Peters, and Phyllis Culver. Theatre parties had an important place in the calendar. The girls enjoy a potluck after which they attend the theatre in a body. Several such parties were held during the last year. The Mother-Daughter tea, an annual affair, was carried out this year in a colonial motif. Dorothy Hall was chairman of the tea, and she was assisted by Betty Daniels, June Holzworth, and Betty Neeb. The girls also gave a skating party this spring.

Any 9B, 9A, or 10B girl whose grade in English is above a B is eligible for membership in Meterites. After she becomes a 10A, she is eligible for membership into Philo, a sister organization of Meterites, made up of upperclass girls. The Meterite girls meet every other Tuesday after school.

stance Haag, Mary Martha Hobrock, Joan Kennedy, Peggy Kilpatrick, Betty Rose Lehman, Selma Liff, Marjorie Meyer, Ruth Roadcap, and Marjorie Scheuman.

In order to be eligible for membership in Philo, a girl must be a 10A, Junior, or Senior; have a grade of B or better in English; and must be passing in all other subjects. Applications for membership in the society are written to Miss Demaree.

A new custom was started by the Philalethians this year. A yearbook, which gives the schedule for Philo's activities for the year, was printed and given to each girl. This yearbook also gave the names of the Philo officers, the songs and yell of the club, the colors and flowers, and the motto. Mary Michaels was the chairman of the committee in charge of this book. She was assisted by Helen Anderson, Selma Liff, Elizabeth Simminger, Helen Doenges, Margaret Crankshaw, Violet Garton, and Thekla Leininger.

A small group of Philalethian girls has been organized to form a dramatic society. The purpose of this society is to furnish plays for Philo meetings whenever they are wanted. The girls who compose this group are called the Philo Thespians. Helen Anderson, vice-president and sergeant-at-arms, was at the head of the Thespians. A number of clever and entertaining plays have been presented at various meetings of the club by this active group of girls. The first play given was "Seven to One." Gwen Horn, Maxine Howard, Selma Liff, Geneva Shearer, Betty Ann Davenport, and Joan Kennedy took part in it. On January 6, "No Men Wanted" was presented before the club. The girls who participated in it are: Helen Potterf, Ruth Adler, Louise Miller, Ruth Roadcap, Betty Jeanne Bond, LaVerne DeKeel, Helen Doenges, and Thekla Leininger.

To furnish music for the meetings is the purpose of the Philo quartet. It is composed of Harriett Yapp, Ruth Fritz, Sybil Knudson, and Helen Flaig. Helen Flaig directs the quartet. It has given many appropriate musical selections at different times during the year.

For several years, it has been the custom of this

The Philalethian Literary Society—"Philo" to acquaintances—has the allegiance of many South Side girls before they graduate. The men may lead other school clubs, but they don't have a chance here. Not a chance!

The club was founded in 1922. Since the start, Miss Elizabeth Demaree, a member of the South Side English department, has been faculty adviser.

Philo's officers during the fall semester of this year were: Ruth Adler, president; Helen Anderson, vice-president; Dorothy Crabill, secretary; Betty Rose Lehman, treasurer; Rosemary Chappell, sergeant-at-arms; Mary Martha Hobrock, program chairman; Jane Loomis, publicity chairman; Virginia Gardner, pianist; and Verna Holtman, Inter-Club Congress representative. For the spring semester, the officers were the following girls: Ruth Adler, president; Mary Martha Hobrock, vice-president; Ruth Roadcap, secretary; Joan Kennedy, treasurer; Helen Anderson, sergeant at arms; Selma Liff, program chairman; Virginia Gardner, pianist; Verna Holtman, publicity chairman; and Peggy Kilpatrick, Inter-Club Congress representative.

Special recognition was given to the Philo members who had attended every meeting of the first semester of this year. Roses fashioned of lovely linen handkerchiefs were presented to the following girls: Ruth Adler, Helen Anderson, Maxine Borchert, Rosemary Chappell, Dorothy Crabill, Bernadette Dygert, Con-club to have a yell leader who leads the club's yells. This position has been ably filled during the past two semesters by Maxine Marlotte. Martha Suter and Eleanor Cupp were two former yell leaders.

There are many outstanding dates on the Philalethian social calendar for each year. Philo's social activities begin with the annual Philo dance. This is usually on the night preceding the South Side-Central football game. November 9 was the date for this year's dance. "Archer's Ark" was the theme for the hop. Unusual and clever decorations were used to carry out this theme. Dick Schack and his orchestra furnished the music for the dancing. Ruth Adler was the general chairman of the affair. She was assisted by the following girls and their committees: Helen Anderson, program; Mary Martha Hobrock, tickets; Jane Loomis, publicity; Rosemary Chappell, tickets; and Maxine Borchert, decorations. Chap-erones were Miss Martha Pittenger, Miss Elizabeth Demaree, Miss Gertrude Oppelt, Miss Hazel Miller, Miss Crissie Mott, Mr. Delivan Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Verne Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Anderson, Mrs. Stella E. Adler, Mr. and Mrs. R. Nelson Snider, and Mr. and Mrs. Merle J. Abbett. Several attendance prizes were given during the course of the evening. Also, a very clever specialty show was presented.

Next on the calendar came the Christmas Party. Mrs. Feagles, who participated in the program last year, again was featured. She related in a pleasing and entertaining manner a Christmas story written by that well-known authoress, Zona Gale. Then several selections on the piano were played by Reginald Gerig, a talented pianist at South Side. He was also on last year's program.

January was the month during which the annual Philalethian musicale was held at the home of Miriam Lickert, where there is installed a fine organ. Helen Flaig, director of the Philo quartet, was in charge of the program. An unusual feature of the program was the organ music played by Avanel Glass, a South Side alumna. The quartet sang several numbers, and Miriam Lickert and Helen Flaig played duets on the harp. Two vocal solos were presented by Ruth Ann Larimore, another South Side alumna. Mary Jo

Allen played a violin solo. Twenty-five Philo members attended this musicale on Sunday evening, January 26. Miss Pittenger, Miss Olive Perkins, and Miss Mary Jane Scott, a former Philo president, were guests.

Another Philo tradition is the joint Philo-Meterite meeting. This is always observed during the spring semester. The two literary organizations of South Side combined this year with a joint meeting in March. The newly-organized Philo Thespians presented a play entitled, "A Cup of China Tea." Martha Zelt, Eva Allison, Verna Holtman, Marian Wolff, Theo Schurenberg, Peggy Kilpatrick, and LaVerne DeKeel comprised the cast for the play. An amateur hour was staged by the members of Meterites.

On March 7, the annual Saint Patrick's Day banquet was given at the Fort Wayne Woman's Club. This was the fourteenth annual banquet held on this date by the Philalethians. The first one was given during the year the society was organized. "Leap Year" was the theme for this year's banquet. Miss Mary Catherine Smeltzley, a teacher at Central High School, was the principal speaker. Next, Roberta Garton, a former Philo member and Philo poet, gave an original poem. The reading of this poem was followed by a speech given by Miss Virginia Montgomery, a Philo alumna. A response from the active Philo members was presented by Mary Michaels. Helen Potterf gave a reading in Irish dialect. Impromptu speeches were made by Mr. Abbett, Mr. Snider, and Mr. Null. Several songs were sung by the quartet, and Miriam Lickert and Helen Flaig played a harp duet. The program was ended by the singing of the usual Philalethian songs.

Resolved: Bad Speakers Should Be Exterminated

BY JOAN LOHMAN

Red-headed persons with chips on their shoulders have a fine chance to fill the ozone with invective vituperation in the club of the Wranglers. For Wranglers Club is devoted to public speaking, as the name implies.

September, the month of renewed friendships, began with the club's annual picnic, which was in the form of a wiener bake. It was on September 23 at 6 o'clock that this picnic was in full sway on the river bank back of Vesey's home. The height of the evening was reached when the members all sat around the bonfire and sang.

At the next meeting, held October seventh, the members of the Wrangling group listened to speeches by Alfred Diem and Mrs. Willis and to a humorous monologue by Vera Ellinger. Mr. Diem spoke on the declamation of public speaking, in preparation for the declamation contest; Vera Ellinger's skit was about football; and Mrs. Willis talked on Washington, D. C., its history, beauty, and industrial accomplishments. Jack Beemer entertained the group by singing "Tobacco Road" and "Down the Oregon Trail." The president, Dave Steger, appointed committees for the initiation. Bernadette Dygert was appointed head of the decoration committee, and Joan Lohman was appointed the head of the menu committee.

On Monday evening, October 21, at 6 o'clock in the cafeteria, Wranglers held its potluck and initiation. After all had eaten to their heart's content, they adjourned to Miss Benner's room, where the initiation was held. After being roughly initiated, the new members were seriously initiated and became full-fledged Wranglers.

At a meeting held on November 4, the Wranglers were greatly honored to have as their guest speaker the Rev. Charles Houser, who gave a very interesting speech on the Armistice. After the Rev. Mr. Houser had spoken, Miss Velma Lehman played several selections on the accordian. Cake and cider were served as refreshments.

One of the most interesting meetings of the year was the declamation contest. Those who entered the contest are Sybil Knudson, Thekla Leininger, Bon Silene Craig, Louis Bonsib, Charles Hart, Dalton McAlister, Robert Storm, Joe Bex, Gwen Horn, and Bernadette Dygert. The judges were Mr. Benton Speaker, Miss Alda Jane Woodward, and Miss Betty Peters. First place went to Joe Bex, who gave the speech John Adams had delivered at the Constitutional Convention. Second place was awarded to Gwen Horn, who gave the "Victor of Marengo." Third place was won by Louis Bonsib, who gave Patrick Henry's "Give Me Liberty Or Give Me Death" speech.

The officers who presided from September to January were: Dave Steger, president; Gwendolyn Horn, vice-president; Doris Bennett, secretary; Richard Strasser, treasurer; Tom Jaenicke and Clifford Schrom, sergeant-at-arms; and Delbert Leininger, Inter-Club Congress representative.

Because of illness, the president, Dave Steger, was compelled to leave school; and the vice-president, Gwendolyn Horn, conducted the rest of the meetings.

This year Wranglers did something that they had never done before—they amended the Constitution. The amendment states that no one may join the Wranglers Club unless he or she has had one-half term of public speaking or has entered a speaking contest. This was done because Wranglers Club stands for public speaking.

On December 16 new officers were elected to lead the club until June. Those who were elected are: Clifford Schrom, president; Sally Rea, vice-president; Maxine Roth, secretary; Tom Jaenicke, treasurer; Richard Strasser and Philip Green, sergeants-at-arms; and Virginia Gross, Inter-Club Congress representative.

"Midnight On Manhattan" was the theme of the Wranglers Dance on February 8, at which about sixty couples enjoyed the evening, with music furnished by Lowell Meyers and his orchestra. Many prizes were awarded during the evening. Miss Benner, the adviser, was given a corsage of flowers. Miss Pit-tenger, dean of South Side High School, was given a box of powder. The two attendance prizes were won by Maxine Roth and Walter Jergenson and Sally Rea and Dave Steger. The most bashful couple of the evening, Frieda Schubert and Joe Bex, received a balloon as a prize. Marybelle Gallmeyer and "Corky" Ryan, both of North Side, were awarded a prize for being the tallest couple. Mildred Foellinger and Rex Parker received a prize for being the "cutest" couple. The general chairman of the dance was Clifford Schrom. Ann Winter headed the decoration committee, Tom Jaenicke was chairman of the orchestra committee, Dick Helm managed the publicity, and George Anna Martin was head of the prize committee.

One of the most interesting meetings of the entire year was held on February 26. The special guest of the meeting was Dick Tricker, who was the first president of Wranglers after it was reorganized by Miss Benner. He gave a talk about his experiences in re-organizing the club. Another guest was Berneta McIntosh, a 1935 graduate, who was former secretary and vice-president of the club. Following the meeting, a potluck was held in the cafeteria. The entertainment consisted of popular songs with words which included members of the Wranglers Club. The words for the music were written by Mary Louise Helms and her committee. However, the initiation which followed the potluck proved to be the most popular event of the entire evening. The initiation services for ten new members were held in rooms 176 and 178.

An interesting contest of Wranglers Club is the Wranglers Honor Debate. This year the debate proved to be enjoyable and interesting to both the audience and the contestants. Everyone who participated in this annual event of the club showed outstanding ability in debating skill. Four speakers, Dick Helm, Sybil Knudson, Charles Hart, and Vernon Miller, were chosen from the ranks of the original contestants by being judged on a three-minute speech. The final debate was on the proposition, "Resolved, that the several states should adopt a unicameral system of state legislature." By a close decision the negative team, composed of Charles Hart and Vernon Miller, won the laurels at this interesting meeting of Wranglers Club. March 9, Mr. Benton Speaker was the judge for the elimination contest and for the debate.

Dick Helm was declared winner of the extemporaneous contest which was held by the Wranglers Club on April 20. Dick spoke on "Freight by Highway." Dalton McAlister and Vernon Miller tied for second place. Dalton's speech was "Trial by Newspaper," and Vernon's speech was "Don't Be a Lawyer." Charles Hart, who took third place, had as his subject "Wake Up and Live." There were two other contestants, Joe Bex and Robert Storm, with the respective subjects "Quiet Please" and "Small Town." The judges were Miss Virginia Montgomery, Mr. Sterner, and the members of the club.

The most formal affair that the Wranglers Club sponsored during the year was their banquet, which was held May 12. At that time, the winners of the declamation contest and of the extemporaneous contests were awarded medals. Some of the medals were gold, others silver, and some of bronze. The winner of the Wranglers Club Extemporaneous Contest, Dick Helm, received a new award. The medal had never been awarded before, as the contest was the first of its kind held by the club. Other awards that were given were certificates to the outstanding public speakers of the year. A very interesting program was held at the dinner. The officers and other members gave speeches and Ray Speaker gave a special tap dance.

Public speaking activities are more than school activities. South Side High School speakers are well known by civic clubs and community organizations throughout the city. Manuel Rothberg, Ruth Garrison, Helen Flaig, Sybil Knudson, and Dalton McAlister are a few that have spoken before civic clubs.

Wranglers are dedicated to the cause of good speaking. And they are good speakers. But more than this, they are a real-for-sure bunch of students who have a good time while they work.

A Page Torn From The Book Of Library Club

BY MARTHA FRANZ

Book worms eat books up. That should clearly show that the Library Club is not a group of book worms; for the books do the eating in this case—they eat up much of the library workers' excess time.

There are twenty-four members on the library staff, —eleven juniors and thirteen seniors. The seniors are: Maxine Borchert, Vera Ellinger, Martha Franz, Bill Fries, Robert Gargett, Bill Hebermehl, Hazel Kuttler, Selma Liff, Maxine Mariotte, George Anna Martin, Helen Potterf, Jo-Anne Smith, and Sonia Velkoff. The junior members of the club are: Phyllis Barrows, Ruth Berning, LaVon Cook, Ruth Fritz, Richard Gebert, James Geiger, Arlin Greiser, Evelyn Kruse, Rosemary Lehman, Don Sinish, and Geraldine Valiton.

Members of this service club are assigned work during the periods of the day and after school. Each member must work during two study periods each week and one evening after school.

The officers of the club for the fall semester were: Martha Franz, president; George Anna Martin, secretary; Maxine Borchert, point recorder; Bill Fries, sergeant-at-arms; and Vera Ellinger, Inter-Club Congress representative.

The meetings of the club are held at 7:30 on the fourth Tuesday of each month. The first meeting of the school year is usually in the form of a wiener bake. At this meeting all the new members are initiated.

The October meeting was held in the form of a Halloween party, at which time Jo-Anne Smith attempted to foretell the destinies of the members of the Library Club. A book review and a reading concluded the program. The alumni members of the club were honored at the November meeting, which was held in the form of a potluck.

The new Library Club officers were installed, and bronze and silver "L's" were awarded at the January meeting. The new officers were: Bill Fries, president; George Anna Martin, vice-president; Selma Liff, secretary; Richard Gebert, point recorder; Jo-Anne Smith, sergeant-at-arms; and Rosemary Lehman, Inter-Club Congress representative. Those members who were given silver pins are Sonia Velkoff and Maxine Mariotte. The bronze pins were awarded to LaVon Cook, Gerry Valiton, Ruth Berning, Phyllis Barrows, Don Sinish, Rosemary Lehman, James Geiger, Evelyn Kruse, Bill Hebermehl, Richard Gebert, Arlin Greiser, Hazel Kuttler, Bob Gargett, Selma Liff, and Ruth Fritz.

The pins, gold, silver, and bronze, are awarded for points earned. The bronze pins are awarded for twenty-five points, which normally are earned at the end of the first semester of service. Silver pins are awarded to those members having a total of fifty points, which may be earned by the end of the junior year. These silver pins are worn throughout the senior year. When a worker has obtained one hundred points, which is the equivalent of two years' work, he is awarded a gold pin on Recognition Day. These gold pins are the property of the club members; the others are the permanent property of the club.

A potluck and treasure hunt were the features of the February meeting. The treasure was a box of chocolates. The last club meeting of the school year was the Senior picnic. Juniors planned this picnic; the seniors were the guests. The new officers were also installed at the time.

The high school library has grown rapidly since its founding in 1921, having at that time only 1,104 books and 1,021 pamphlets. However, at the present time, the total number of books has risen to 6,352 with a circulation of 36,000 yearly. The picture circulation is about 1,000 and the clippings about 1,200.

Safety-First For Kids, Kars, And Kops

BY RUTH ADLER

"All that a man hath will he give for his life."—Because most of us fail to use the Golden Rule in regard to this quotation, South Side has taken another means of making us value lives, limbs, and property. This method was the forming of a Safety Council similar to those being formed throughout the country. The main purpose of this organization was to make South Side "safety conscious." The council accomplished its purpose by means of contests and assemblies.

The first of these assemblies was held November 13 when Mayor Harry W. Baals, Merle J. Abbett, superintendent of schools; Mr. Thomas J. Kelley, president of the Chamber of Commerce; and Sergeant Custer Dunifon, traffic sergeant of the police department, spoke on the importance of safety from their own particular viewpoints. Ruth Adler, president of the council, presided at the introductions.

Essays were written and scrapbooks and posters were made for the contests. All English students were required to write a theme on safety. Winners of each class were awarded small prizes. Prizes were awarded to each of the four class winners, who were: Freshman, Helen Faux; sophomore, Betty Jane Miller; junior, Richard Ake; and senior, Sonia Velkoff. Sonia Velkoff's essay, "All in a Day's Work," took grand first place, and Richard Ake's poem, "Extracts from a Diary," won second prize.

Thirteen posters were chosen from all of the entries for final judging. These posters were created by Georgianna Jacobs, Bud Jones, Frank Glusenkamp, Robert Miller, Leonard Koch, Norman Miller, Earl Engelbrecht, Jack Bosserman, and Mary Martha Hobrock. Bud Jones' poster of a small child with the question, "Would you murder him?" won first place. Second place was taken by Georgianna Jacobs' poster of a policeman. The wording on this poster was "Stop Accidents." "Don't duck between cars" was cleverly illustrated by a picture of a duck on Mary Martha Hobrock's poster, which took third place.

These prizes were donated by the courtesy of Packard Fort Wayne, Incorporated; Baker-Miller Company; National Mill Supply Company; Oldsmobile Agency; Chester G. Schiefer; Main Auto Supply Company; Bill Gouty; and Vettors Auto Company.

No,—let's not have an oration about the Times! Let's merely point out a few of the ways in which the Times has gone forward during its fourteen years of publication. Nineteen thirty-six has added to the already long list of accomplishments.

Beginning early last fall, the Times sent Ann Abbett, Helen Anderson, John Bex, Louis Bonsib, Norman Buck, Rosemary Chappell, Dorothy Crabill, Ruth Garrison, Dick Helm, Helen Kelsey, George Anna Martin, Bryce Minier, Jo-Anne Smith, Bob Storm, Jim Sweet, Virginia Vesey, Betty Wolf, and Harriet Yapp to the Indiana High School Press Association held at Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana, where the paper was awarded many prizes for excellence in journalism.

John Bex, who is the second South Side student ever to hold an office in the I. H. P. A., was elected president. The first was Ann Abbett, member of the class of 1936, who was secretary of the association in 1934-5.

At this convention the South Side Times was awarded eighteen first places and two second places out of a possible twenty-two. It was also awarded first place in Class I to decide an "All-Indiana Superior" newspaper.

Individual newspaper awards were also presented to Norman Buck and Dick Helm for sports writing, to Jim Sweet for a feature story, and to Louis Bonsib for advertising writing.

Bryce Minier was general manager during the first part of the fall semester, and Ann Abbett was general manager during the last part. Rosemary Chappell and Jim Sweet completed the spring term as general managers. Other major positions were: Jo-Anne Smith and Rosemary Chappell, managing editors; Jim Sweet, editor; Ruth Garrison, news editor; John Jackson and Reginald Gerig, copy editors; Dick Helm, sports editor; Norman Buck, make-up editor; Bob Storm, sports copy and make-up editor; John Bex, business manager; Harriett Yapp, circulation manager; George Anna Martin, advertising manager; Robert Schweizer, credit manager.

In November a special American Education Week issue was published, of which Virginia Vesey, deceased, of the class of 1936, was special general manager, and Bryce Minier, general manager. The issue included twenty pages. This issue received many honors from the National Educational Association and the Student Editors' Association and the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

Quill and Scroll, international honorary society for high school journalists, awarded Jo-Anne Smith third national place in the United States in the copy-reading contest, Ruth Garrison first place in the East Central division of the news terms contest, and Jim Sweet second place in East Central States section in the editorial writing contest.

Not only have students received rewards; but Miss Rowena Harvey, faculty adviser of the Times, has also received many honors for her outstanding work in the field of high school newspaper work. At a recent convention of the National Scholastic Press Association, she was given a gold key for distinguished work.

During Christmas vacation students received a "joke" issue containing many witty sayings and jokes to make students more happy during the vacation.

Besides the joke issue, a special April Fool's issue was also published, in a spirit of fun.

At the time of the sectional tourney, a Tournament News issue was published, in which one page was devoted to the athletic news of each school. Arcola, Hometown, New Haven, and Woodburn were the towns to which Times staff members went to get tourney material.

During the last week of school, senior journalists published the annual senior day issue. The general manager for this edition was Mildred Foellinger.

There were not only many interesting issues, but many new columns were started with interesting names. "Shoes and Ships" was a variety column. "Ear Burners" gave personal items about South Side students. "Carrying On" was written by representative students each week. "Secrets to Seventeens" dealt with social relations among students.

The major staff members for the spring term were: Reginald Gerig and Norman Buck, managing editors; Bob Storm, editor; John Jackson and Maxine Mariotte, copy editors; John Bex, business manager; Leona Menze, circulation manager; George Anna Martin, advertising manager; Leona Menze, Mary-Anne Fark, and Lois Wyneken, star reporters; Sybil Knudson, credit manager; Ann Abbett, Bryce Minier, and Louis Bonsib student advisers.

Again proving that the South Side Times is a superior paper, it was awarded a blue ribbon medal, the highest award of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. The Times has received this medal annually since the first convention. It is one of the four high schools in the nation of an enrollment of 1500 to 2500 to receive the prize.

At this convention the Times was also awarded the title of All-Columbian, which is bestowed upon a paper that has excelled in a particular field. The Times received the reward for its sports coverage.

The South Side Times was again awarded the All-American Honor Rating—Superior for 1936 by the National Scholastic Press Association. This award is the highest that can be given to any paper in the division in which the Times was entered. The paper was entered in the first division of the coeducational high school which have a weekly publication and an enrollment of 1600 or more. The Times has won the All-American Honor Rating since 1929, the year this award was begun. As a result of winning this award, the paper will be presented with a distinctive certificate giving the name of the publication, the rating received, and the year of the competition. The Times was especially commended on its series of stories about alumni who have obtained positions, their news coverage in general, and the good harmony of type faces.

Bryce Minier, Joe Bex, and Leona Menze, three South Side students, were entered in the Quill and Scroll vocabulary, editorial writing, and feature decisions. Joe Bex won fourth place in the East Central States division of the editorial contest. This district includes Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Wisconsin. His editorial was "Can We Abolish Poverty?" In the feature writing contest, Leona Menze received honorable mention. Her feature was an interview with Miss Dorothy Benner about the radio programs that Miss Benner dislikes. Bryce Minier, student adviser of the South Side Times, won honorable mention in the vocabulary division of the contest.

On the night of May 4, the Times put on an assembly for the Parent-Teachers' Association showing the steps in the publication of the paper.

Those pupils from the January graduation class who received Quill and Scroll awards are as follows: Ann Abbett, Helen Anderson, Bernadette Dygert, Mildred Foellinger, Dorothy Crabill, Maxine Mariotte, George Anna Martin, Jo-Anne Smith, Louis Bonsib, Bryce Minier, Dick Helm, and Jim Sweet.

In the issue of the Times published on April 30, the new members of the Quill and Scroll were announced. Membership in this organization is based upon the following: first, service to the publications—the person must work on publications for one full year; second, character, and third, scholarship. Those who were announced are: Mary Anne Fark, June Haeger, Ruth Rose, Ruth Adler, Violet Garton, Norman Buck, Rosemary Chappell, Mary Martha Hobrock, Gwendolyn Horn, Sybil Knudson, Miriam McIntire, Harriett Yapp, Earle Paxton, and Ruth Roadcap.

Math Scientists--"Star Dust" Is Their Meat!

BY RUTH ROSE

Math-Science is the club that puts two and two together, finds what makes the clock tick, and has a good time doing it, too. The club's aim is to promote the knowledge of and interest in mathematics and science.

During the fall semester the club was led by John Bex, as president. He was very capably assisted by the other officers, who were: vice-president, Ruth Adler; secretary, Helen Anderson; treasurer, David Sherman; Inter-Club Congress representative, Lois Wyneken; food committee, William Schafer and William Kruse; program committee, Ruth Garrison, Richard Bridges, and Selma Liff; and entertainment committee, Ruth Roadcap, Ruth Berning, and Norman Buck. The advisers were Miss Fiedler and Mr. Whelan.

At the first meeting of the fall semester, a reading giving the ideals and purposes of Math-Science was presented. Characters taking part were, Spirit of Math-Science Club, Bryce Minier; Spirit of Math, Miss Fiedler; and Spirit of Science, Mr. Whelan. At this same meeting, Mr. Gould gave an illustrated lecture on "Trees of Indiana."

In October, the annual Halloween Party was held. Ruth Adler, social chairman, was in charge of the party. A prize for the most attractive costume was awarded to Selma Liff. At the conclusion of the party, refreshments were served.

The outstanding feature of the November meeting was an interesting talk on "The Chemical and Mathematical Side of the Waterworks," given by Mr. R. L. Matthews, supervisor of the Fort Wayne Waterworks. Mr. Matthews supplemented his talk with a chart, showing the course of the water from the time it enters the filtration plant until it leaves. The speaker also gave many interesting facts and figures on the Fort Wayne water system. At the completion of Mr. Matthews' speech, Ruth Roadcap spoke on the life and theory of Albert Einstein.

A potluck was the outstanding event on the December program of the club. After the members had finished their delightful meal, Miss Mary Paxton spoke on "Calendars." She stated that her interest in calendars had been aroused after she had visited Mexico and had seen an Aztec Indian calendar.

In January, the members of Math-Science Club held a joint meeting with the members of the Social Science Club. At the business meeting, election of officers was held. Those elected to serve as officers during the spring semester were: president, Richard Rastetter; vice-president, Ruth Garrison; secretary, Evelyn Kruse; and treasurer, Richard Gebert. Advisers for the spring term were Miss Hodgson and Mr. Gould.

After the installation of the new officers at the February meeting, Mr. Louie Hull, physics instructor, entertained the members with his demonstration of a miniature "House of Magic."

On Washington's birthday, the members of Math-Science sponsored an assembly. The skit was written and directed by Mildred Foellinger and Ruth Adler.

In March, Miss Paxton spoke to the members on "Land of Contrasts." At the conclusion of her talk, John Bex gave a discussion of "Insectivorous Plants." "Indiana Bird Life" was the topic spoken on by Mr. William Willer at the April meeting of the club. At this same meeting, Miss Fiedler talked on "Some Interesting Phases of Mathematics," and Mr. Lawrence spoke on "The Science of Seeing." A year of interesting activities was brought to a close by the picnic held on June 5.

It's Been Lots Of Fun Putting Out A Totem!

BY MARY ANN FARK

Time Marches On! . . . out of four years of the past, when seniors were juniors, sophomores, and freshmen, —into many years of the unknown future.

When Louis Bonsib, Editor of the Totem 1936, aided by Miss Rowena Harvey, faculty adviser, selected "The March of Time" as the theme for the year-book of the senior class of 1936, he must have been inspired by the many events that have marched, with time, through the four short years these seniors have spent in South Side High School.

The march of events which led to the publication of this book is significant, interesting, and enlightening.

When over four hundred new students entered the school in January and September of 1932, they im-brock. Nearly four hundred pictures were taken by S. A. Beach, the commercial photographer of the Jefferson Studio; these were all completed before December 1.

Faculty pictures, about seventy in number, were finished before the beginning of the Christmas vacation period by Paul Reynolds, staff photographer.

About the time when the faculty pictures were being taken, a drive to secure underclassmen photographs was also under way. This campaign resulted in fully five hundred pictures.

On December 6, the Totem sponsored an assembly to help clubs procure their pages at reduced cost. The program featured Dr. William Harwood, noted explorer and trainer of wild animals. It resulted in a substantial cut in page prices for clubs.

From December 1 to February 7, Bryce Minier, business manager, was busy arranging schedules for club pictures, which were taken in the study hall and Greeley Room. The commercial photographer and the editor worked long hours on these pictures, which were completed in record time.

Just after the beginning of the spring semester on January 6, 1936, a new underclassman picture drive began —this time for incoming freshmen. A good percentage of the new students signed for pictures.

Starting with February 14, the date on which the first stories were due, the copy editors, who are: Anna Bremer, Selma Liff, Violet Garton, and Jim Sweet, became busy correcting and re-arranging the copy which was turned in. The stories were all assigned by Ruth Adler and Helen Anderson, co-activities editors.

diately became important parts of South Side life. Ever since their entrance, they have maintained their tradition of dependability; and now, so near to commencement, the Totem comes out to bear further proof of their leadership.

The first successful undertaking necessary to publishing a superior yearbook was completed in October of 1933, when Dorothy Crabill, circulation manager of the Totem, boosted the goal of eight hundred subscriptions over the top by more than one hundred signatures.

Next in order of events came the senior picture drive, which was ably handled by Mary Martha Ho-

U. S. A. Is One Up On "Service With A Smile"

BY HARRIET BASFORD

Service with a smile? No—we don't refer to bell hops, but to the up-and-coming U. S. A. Club. Founded on unity, conceived in service, and dedicated to appreciation, the aims of the U. S. A., like those of all other Girl Reserve clubs, are to promote friendship through working and playing together, to be loyal to the school, and to be earnest and truthful at all times.

This year these three aims have been especially carried out in the activities of the club. One of the many clever programs was the membership party in September. It was in the form of an amateur hour. The members of the cabinet stood behind screens which were placed in back of the radio. Helen Meese turned on the radio. The girls behind the screens were then featured on an amateur program. The amateurs were given the names of the new members. It was a pleasant surprise for the new members to hear their own names called as the amateurs stepped up to the microphone. This, however, was just one of the many interesting meetings.

The Christmas program consisted of several entertaining Christmas stories and poems. At the Thanksgiving meeting, which was in the form of a potluck, a Thanksgiving play was given; and Miss Lampson, former activity director at the Y. W. C. A., gave an interesting talk on "Choosing Your Highway." At another meeting, Miss Thorne gave a speech about her many adventures in Labrador. To make the meetings even more enjoyable for the U. S. A. members, there were refreshments for each meeting. Some of the refreshments were fudge, popcorn, taffy apples, cherry tarts with whipped cream, candy canes, and ice cream in Dixie cups. In the initiating ceremony, each member of the cabinet read a line from the Girl Reserve Code and explained it.

Extensive charity work is done by the girls in the U. S. A., such as making valentines, dressing dolls, filling Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets, and making various articles for the Needlework Guild. They also participate in a World Fellowship project each year. The girls participate in three kinds of service work; namely, for the club, the school, and the community. The U. S. A. Club has done a great deal in these directions.

Because it is a branch of the Y. W. C. A. and because its girls are future So-Si-Y girls, the club has a degree system. There are three degrees. The single triangle degree is awarded to the deserving members during the first semester; the double triangle degree during the second semester; and then, during the third semester, to the girls who have worked hard for it goes the highest award a member can receive, the triple triangle degree. Julia Crabill and Betty Burhenn are the two girls who received the triple triangle degree. Those who received the double triangle degree are: Mary Beth Le Fever, Beth Ellen Chadwick, and Eldora Buesking. There are forty-four girls who received the single triangle degree.

Miss Elizabeth Kelley and Mrs. Roy Welty are the two competent faculty advisers who guided the U. S. A. through its most successful year. The officers during the fall semester were: President, Julia Crabill; vice-president, Vivian Woods; secretary, Helen Meese; treasurer, Barbara Raymond; membership chairman, Eldora Buesking; service chairman, Kathryn McGinnitie; publicity chairman, Velma Connett; social chairman, Ruth Blue. The officers during the spring semester were: President, Vivian Woods; vice-president, Eldora Buesking; secretary, Phyllis Roller; treasurer, Irene Niemeyer; membership chairman, Julia Crabill; service chairman, Velma Connett; social chairman, Ellen Addington; publicity chairman, Virginia Menze.

First Row: J. Enoch, A. Korte, R. Blue, J. Warren, H. Harlan, E. Buesking, P. Roller, V. Woods, I. Niemeyer, B. A. Griffith, R. Kockler, B. E. Chadwick, V. Connett.

--And These Girls Don't Even Need a Can Opener

BY JUNE HAEGER

The way to a man's heart is undoubtedly through his stomach. At least that is what the girls in Wo-Ho-Ma hope, for, in their club activities they not only have a good time learning how to fry eggs "sunny-side-up," but they also prepare for a career as a "Worthy-Home-Maker." The club is organized as a part of the state-wide organization of Home Economics Clubs. Any girl who is taking home economics or any girl who has successfully completed a year of home economics is eligible to be a member.

In order to carry out its purposes, this home economics club sponsors very interesting programs for its members. These are always planned along the theme of improving home life and encouraging high ideals for the girls. The special theme for this year was "Famous Women of America." At various meetings, reports were given on the lives of several eminent American women, including Jane Addams, the social worker; Dr. Rina Sabin, a noted doctor; Helen Keller, a woman who has overcome great physical handicaps; Willa Cather, an author; and Madame Schumann-Heink, an opera star. These reports were short talks given by girls who were members of the club. These girls emphasized the outstanding characteristics of these women who have made such noble and highly-respected names for themselves in various fields of work. The talks gave inspiration to the members of the club and also gave them an ideal to follow. Along with this phase of the club activities, the members kept a scrapbook in keeping with the theme of the year. Articles and pictures of the prominent women were collected from various magazines and organized into interesting biographies.

In order to encourage worthy home making in other manners, the club members took trips to such places of business as the Perfection Biscuit Company, a knitting mill, and several department stores.

An outstanding meeting of another variety was the Emily Post Hour, at which time an open forum was held with the discussion and questions pertaining to all types of perplexing etiquette problems. Rights and wrongs of the etiquette of today are indeed very puzzling; and so, in order to lead a correct social life, it is essential to have a broad knowledge of the "do's" and "don'ts" of etiquette. Such a program as this encourages the girls toward a more refined social life.

This Wo-Ho-Ma Club also has a place in its activities for hobbies. At some meetings the girls tell of their own personal hobbies; and thus they exchange ideas and schemes for developing new fields of interest and, perhaps, service.

Surpassing all of these very interesting meetings is the initiation service which is very impressive with its beautiful candle-light ceremony. At this ceremony, the new members pledge themselves to remain faithful and loyal to the club and its high ideals, and to serve the school, home, community, state, and nation. The officers of the club spend much time in preparation for this meeting, and the performance of the ceremonial always reveals the excellent planning given it.

An added attraction to the club program is the point system. Points are awarded for service as club officer, attendance and punctuality at meetings, prompt payment of dues, bringing visitors, securing new members, and also for any service which is of value to the school.

In charge of these activities are the officers who are advised and aided by the club sponsor, Miss Pearl Rehorst, home economics teacher. The girls who were in office during the past year are: Faith Clark, president; Dorothea Tobianski, vice-president; and Audrey Jeffries, secretary-treasurer. These officers of Wo-Ho-Ma and the adviser have led the club through a very successful year.

the World" was the name of the interesting program at which the Rev. Charles M. Houser gave a talk on "What Girls Can Do To Further World Peace." This talk was followed by a round table discussion on the same subject. At the meeting which featured "Lanes of Leisure," several members demonstrated articles they had made Girls are girls the world over. The Y. W. C. A. serves to unite them well, through its Girl Reserve clubs.

One hundred junior and senior girls in South Side are Girl Reserves—members in the So-Si-Y.

The first meeting of each term is a pep meeting, the purpose of which is to acquaint the new members with the nature of the club. The second meeting is a membership party, and admittance is gained only by payment of dues. At this meeting, programs are handed out with the outline of the semester's meetings, and the members are divided into program groups. Each group selects its own chairman. The chairmen for the first semester of the school year were Ruth Adler, Martha Franz, Mary Michaels, Ruth Reitz, Virginia Greiner, Norma Clauser, and Helen Doenges. For the second semester, June Close, Harriet Basford, Anna Bremer, Miriam Lickert, Dorothy DeHaven, and Mildred Foellinger were elected chairmen of their groups.

The officers who served the first semester of the school year were Anna Bremer, president; Verna Holtman, vice-president; Harriet Basford, secretary; Betty Rison, treasurer; Catherine Allendorph, Inter-Club Congress representative; Helen Anderson, membership chairman; Ruth Reitz, service chairman; Norma Clauser, social chairman; Virginia Greiner, publicity chairman. These officers chose as the theme for the fall semester "Stray Roads."

The meetings centered around this theme were rich in entertainment. At the first meeting in September, a short play entitled "Rhythm in X" was presented by the officers. All those who saw this stirring drama will remember its humor and pathos. "Crossroads of in leisure time, such as rope fiber sandals and bead purses. One of the most delightful meetings, however, was the Christmas party, "Following the Star," to which the Polar-Y girls from North Side were invited. At this meeting, the late Mrs. Susan Simminger gave a talk illustrated with moving pictures which she took in Alaska and in Fort Wayne.

The code line, "Ready for Service," is never ignored in So-Si-Y. Miss Smeltzly, the service adviser, and the service committee supervise many activities. Each year several baskets of food are distributed to the needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas. Easter eggs are colored and valetines are made for the Allen County Orphans' Home to help these children celebrate two famous holidays. For service to the school, the girls mend cafeteria aprons, serve at banquets, and render many other services. Towels were hemmed for the Needlework Guild at the service meeting which, in keeping with the theme, was called "By-paths of Service." Each year the members also take part in a world fellowship project.

So-Si-Y not only participates in service activities, but is active socially as well. The chief social function each fall is the Faculty Tea. This year it was held on October 22 and was suitably called "Chatting with the Road-Graders." A pageant consisting of scenes illustrating the lines of the Girl Reserve code was presented. Each member brought a teacher as guest. The pageant, in which all of the members took part, was followed by a social hour and refreshments. The corresponding spring event was the Mother-Daughter Tea held May 5.

The advisers for So-Si-Y are Miss Rinehart, program adviser; Miss Smeltzly, service adviser; Miss Woodward, social adviser; Miss Miller, membership adviser.

The officers for the spring semester were Helen Anderson, president; Norma Clauser, vice-president; Helen Doenges, secretary; Mary Anne Fark, treasurer; Martha Franz, Inter-Club Congress representative; Virginia Greiner, membership chairman; Mary Michaels, publicity chairman; Geneva Shearer, social chairman; Fay Bechtold, service chairman. "Ships" was the theme chosen by them for the second semester. The meetings were as follows: "Bon Voyage," pep meeting; "All Aboard," membership party; "Ships of State," patriotic; "Storm at Sea," character; "The Lighthouse," Easter program; "All Hands on Deck," hobbies; "Ship Ahoy," world fellowship; "Shipmates Forever," Mother-Daughter Tea; "Land Ho," picnic.

So-Si-Y and Hi-Y gave a "Jack and Jill" dance following the South Side-Central basketball game on February 15. Other social events in which So-Si-Y had a part were the tourney dance at North Side, the "Lollipop Hop" sponsored by the Girl Reserve Inter-Club Council, and the annual spring banquet for all the Girl Reserves of the city. The Inter-Club Council, which is composed of the officers of all the Girl Reserve clubs in the city, was headed by Virginia Greiner during the spring semester.

One of the girls who has done much for So-Si-Y in artistic ways is Miriam McIntire, who has designed many program covers. Helen Doenges is another deserving recognition in that she wrote and directed the safety skit which So-Si-Y presented at a school assembly.

One of the features which makes So-Si-Y popular is the system of three degrees by which outstanding girls are recognized. It was started in 1932. The first degree can be obtained by qualifying as a Girl Reserve of good standing for one term. A member of good standing is one who has paid her dues and attended at least five meetings. The second degree is awarded to those who have been members of good standing for two terms; and, in addition, have helped plan and execute a program, taken part in two community service projects, a service to the school, and one to the club. The triple triangle degree may be obtained by repeating the requirements for the second degree; and, in addition to this, participating in one world fellowship project during her club membership. The following girls earned the triple triangle degree during the fall semester: Ruth Adler, Anna Bremer, Catherine Allendorph, Harriet Basford, Fay Bechtold, Irene Becker, Norma Clauser, Helen Doenges, Mary-Anne Fark, Ruth Fowler, Martha Franz, June Haeger, Vivian Hickman, Verna Holtman, Eliza Bess Lucas, Lorraine Meyer, Ruth Reitz, Betty Rison, Ruth Roadcap, Ruth Rose, and Dorothy Roudebush.

Living up to the custom set a few years ago by So-Si-Y, the club again issued yearbooks for both the fall and spring semesters. They contained the plans and dates for the semester. The designs were carried out according to the themes of the semesters, "Stray Roads" and "Ships."

So-Si-Y was represented on the forum committee by Helen Anderson, who was general chairman for the annual Forum dinner-dance held Thursday evening, April 23, at the Y. W. C. A. Other So-Si-Y girls who assisted with this affair are Helen Doenges and Virginia Greiner, who were on the invitations committee.

"To find and give the best" is its purpose; and in endeavoring to do this, the club follows the Girl Reserve code, which is as follows: "As a Girl Reserve, I will try to be gracious in manner, impartial in judgment, ready for service, loyal to friends, reaching toward the best, earnest in purpose, seeing the beautiful, eager for knowledge, reverent to God, victorious over self, ever dependable, sincere at all times."

Since ancient times men have drawn pictures. And ever since the beginning of South Side, this school's students have furthered an active interest in art through the Art Club. Membership includes both boys and girls.

Searching for beauty in life is the club's aim; and, realizing that art is "an expression of character, philosophy, and purpose," Art Club has made a serious study of "beauty become real."

"The Arts Afternoon" was the club's big fall feature. Sonia Velkoff was in complete charge of all arrangements. It was held in the Greeley Room on Wednesday, November 13, as a part of the National Education Week program. The program was planned to illustrate the various forms of Art—graphic and plastic art, the art of the dance, music and drama. An interesting exhibit from the Little Art Colony of Stillwater, Minnesota, was secured by Miss Dochterman. Kenneth Scott was in charge of this exhibit illustrating graphic art. Some of the artists whose work was displayed are Josephine Lutz, Cameron Booth, Alexander Masley, Elmer Harmes, and his wife, Adrienne Etesse.

Mr. F. Stark, an instructor at the Fort Wayne Art School, gave a demonstration to show the plastic arts. The art of the dance was shown by Betty Roose, who presented a classical tap dance called "Poet and Peasant." She was accompanied at the piano by Florence McGaffay. "Drama" was illustrated by an exceptionally well-portrayed monologue entitled "Renting an Apartment," given by Ann Abbott. The music for the program was under the direction of Marjorie Dancer,

Wreckless They Call

who also presented a vocal solo. An instrumental number was given by Betty Kriescher. During the whole afternoon, South Side's Little Symphony furnished the music. A very interesting student exhibit was hung in the hall outside of the Greeley Room. This consisted mostly of water color compositions made by the students who were learning the new technique which was demonstrated by the Little Art Colony exhibit. This part of the program was under the direction of Janet Fisher. The affair was in the form of a tea. The president, Georgianna Jacobs, and the vice-president, Elizabeth Linhart, poured. Hostesses who served included Ann Hull, Betty Meigs, Martha Franz, Judy Kroeff, Maxine Roth, Virginia Vesey, Rosemary Chappell, Marjorie Mitten, Selma Liff, Joan Bonsib, Mary Martha Hobrock, Ellen Woods, Marie Mitchel, and Frances Craig. The hospitality committee consisted of Joan Bonsib, Delbert Leininger, Hollis Logue, Louis Bonsib, George Anna Martin, and Norman Miller. Attractive invitations, which were designed by art students, were sent to the members of the school board, Superintendent and Mrs. Abbott, prominent Fort Wayne artists, parents of Art Club members, and the members of the South Side faculty.

Art students who were club members derived great pleasure at Christmas time, making small clay and cork animals which were sent as gifts to the children at the Irene Byron Sanitarium. Thank-you letters were received from the children by Miss Dochterman, the faculty adviser of the Art Club. Baskets were filled and sent to the poor at both Thanksgiving and Christmas time.

The annual Christmas paper was designed and sold by art students in the club. This was the seventh year that the Art Club has sponsored the sale of this paper. This colorful, well-designed linoleum-cut paper was printed in two shades of green.

A delightful Christmas party was planned for the December meeting. Mrs. Vera Lane read "The Vanishing Princess" in a most charming and entertaining manner. Refreshments in keeping with the holiday season were served.

Painters— It Art!

BY MAXINE ROTH

The "Melodie Matinee" was held on February 26 in the Greeley Room. It proved to be a very entertaining program because of the great variety of talent. Reginald Gerig presented a piano solo. His selections included "Pell Street" by Withorne and "Sequidilla" by Albeniz. A tap dance was given by Helen Gray; and Joe Bex gave several imitations, among which were those of Father Coughlin, Edwin C. Hill, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and many others.

A very clever Irish monologue was presented by Helen Potterf. Bob Augsburg sang "Take Me Back to My Boots and Saddle," after which Marjorie Dancer sang "Please Believe Me."

The officers for the first semester were president, Georgianna Jacobs; vice-president, Elizabeth Linhart; secretary, Ann Hull; treasurer, Hollis Logue; and program chairman, Sonia Velkoff. The second semester officers included, president, Rosemary Chappell; vice-president, Kenneth Scott; secretary, Mary Ellen Woods and Marie Mitchell; treasurer, Stuart Trulock; social council, Selma Liff, chairman, Ruth Stoner, Marjorie Dancer, Maxine Roth, and George Anna Martin.

The various activities of the club are planned to exemplify the creed and to emphasize the beauty in living. The sole purpose of the club is to develop a love for beauty and to stimulate a desire to look for beauty everywhere and to live a beautiful life.

The outstanding social activity of Spring was the Art Club dance held on April 25 in the Greeley Room. It is always a long remembered dance, because of the uniqueness and originality in decorations. This dance was characteristic of art in that the decorations were, as always, exquisitely different and colorful. As usual the dance was planned so that a variety of costumes could be worn by the students.

Rosemary Chappell was in general charge of this prom. The decorations were very modern, the entire effect being achieved by the use of lights. The blending of violet, green, and yellow flood lights was worked out by Rosemary Chappell, president, and Kenny Scott, decorations chairman. The room was cleared of everything except one modern unit and the lighting scheme.

The programs carried out the colors used in the decoration scheme, with a combination of colors of converging rays of light. These colors were suggestive of spring and the radiation of colors. Mary Martha Hobrock and her committee, composed of Sonia Velkoff, Janet Fisher, Marie Mitchell, Billie Mauk, Betty Lickert, Richard Schaefer, and Louis Bonsib, had charge of this phase of the preparation for the prom.

Chaperones for the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Merle J. Abbett, R. Nelson Snider, Miss Martha Pittenger, Miss Dorothy Magley, Miss Erma Dochterman, and the officers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Chappell, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Trulock, and Mrs. H. F. Scott. Selma Liff was ticket chairman and was assisted by Janet Fisher, Marjorie Dancer, George Anna Martin, Ruth Stoner, Louis Bonsib, Stuart Trulock, Joan Lohman, and Rosemary Chappell. The publicity committee was headed by Joan Bonsib. Also on this committee were Joyce Spencer and Fritz Lohman.

Kenneth Scott, chairman of the decoration committee, was aided by Robert Bergel, Sue Wallace, Ina Claire Chappell, Delbert Leininger, Jean Fortriede, Maxine Rippe, Aubrey Kellogg, Richard Orr, June Close, Ann Hull, Irene Niemeyer, William Gould, Betty Carey, and Thelma Kuttler. Maxine Roth was chairman of the orchestra committee with Delbert Leininger and Virginia Worden helping her.

As a fitting climax for the conclusion of the Art Club activities during their successful year under the leadership of Miss Dochterman and the club officers, a picnic was held at the close of the spring term. This was held at one of Fort Wayne's beauty spots, a nearby park. Pleasant thoughts of this picnic will linger long in the memories of the members.

Art Club is a group of real artists—they see art in everything!

Pack Your Trunk! Travel Club Is Off For China

BY VIRGINIA BAUMGARTNER

Strange as it may seem, the members of this Travel Club travel! Most of them can boast of having gone all the way around the world! Of course they do not bother to pack bags and buy tickets. Instead, they attend meetings in the Greeley Room every other Wednesday, and, with the program chairman and much-anticipated trip to Bell's rink. The party was held January 24. Rowena Bevington was in general charge.

The programs this year have been exceedingly interesting. One of the most interesting talks about travel was given by Ida W. Langford, who organized the Travel Club in Fort Wayne. She talked about Key West, Florida. Other outstanding programs of the year included talks about Salem, Massachusetts, by Miss McCloskey, and about Japan, by Mr. Ward O. Gilbert.

The annual night party was held in November. The program consisted of an amateur hour with "Major" Leona Menze. After the program, the guests were entertained with games and dancing.

The first meeting of every semester is a Red Cross meeting. Although Travel Club is not entirely a Red Cross club, the members try to do something each year to help out this organization. Each spring the club sends two representatives to the National Red Cross Convention. Miss Marjorie Snyder, who is secretary of the Fort outside speakers as guides, visit all parts of the world.

"See America First" was the theme for the fall semester. The officers were Virginia Baumgartner, president; Rowena Bevington, vice-president; Georgetta McIntire, secretary; Geneva Shearer, treasurer; Beatrice Schieber, foreign secretary; Margaret Crankshaw, Inter-Club Congress representative; and Charles Thorne, sergeant-at-arms. Miss Mabel Thorne is the faculty adviser.

At the first meeting the members were taken to Washington, D. C. Virginia Greiner and Mary Kay Smith, who were Travel Club's representatives to the National Red Cross Convention, told of their experience in Washington while attending this convention. The other places which were visited during the fall semester were New Orleans, Louisiana; Yellowstone Park; Salem, Massachusetts; Seattle, Washington; San Diego, California; and Key West, Florida; with Marjorie Meyer, Justine Crum, Mary Michaels, Eliza Bess Lucas, Ruth Fowler, and Martha Franz as chairmen, respectively. The last trip of the semester was the Catherine Allendorph, Walter Prange, Virginia Greiner, Lorraine Meyer, Martha Franz, Margery Ruhl, and Donald Hickman were installed as president, vice-president, secretary, foreign secretary, treasurer, Inter-Club Congress representative, and sergeant-at-arms, respectively, for the second semester.

The newly-elected executive board decided that "Schoolmates in Other Lands" would be the theme of the spring semester. The destinations and the program chairmen were: Japan, Leona Menze; Egypt, Harriet Basford; Germany, Virginia Baumgartner; Holland, Anna Bremer; France, Helen Doenges; Canada, Margaret Ruhl; and Prospectus, Theo Schuerenberg.

Each spring the annual Senior picnic is held. Since last year's outing in Huntington was so successful, the club decided to have it out of town again this year. The picnic, a farewell party for the seniors, is always the outstanding affair of the second semester activities.

Actors Happen Even In The Best Of Families

BY KENNETH SCOTT

"The play's the thing wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king," quoth Hamlet. And every Archer bade well to be a king during the last school year, for drama was given the student body in liberal portions by the Student Players' Club. But we would not infer that Archers were like Hamlet's rascally king, for they appreciated the drama better than he.

Since all good clubs need good leaders, the Student Players' Club elected Dick Helm, president; Ruth Rose, vice-president; and Barbara Uran, secretary-treasurer for the fall semester at the first meeting. With these determined officers, the second meeting of the year, in October, started affairs off with a bang! Selma Liff faced the footlights and gave a side-splitting monologue, "Blue-Black Widow;" Helen Doenges reviewed a current play; and Catherine Allendorph read the "Shadow on the Blind," in which a minister (yes, a minister!) was accused of beating his wife with a poker!

"Just like professionals" was the remark from the audience when Charles Hart, Don Sparkman, Maxine Rippe, and Mary Louise Helms gave "Behind the Screen" for the November meeting. Charles "Husband" Hart misinterpreted some remarks that Don "Hero" Sparkman said to Maxine "Wifey" Rippe; and, adding still more to the mix-up, Mary "Heroine" Helms told "Husband" Hart that he was nothing but a shrimp. So ended another delightful meeting.

"It's An Ill Wind"—Scene: A photographer's studio in a little village. Characters: Photographer, Kenny Scott; photographer's wife, Virginia Shiflet; gangster, Clifford Schrom; gangster's moll, Sally Rea.

In January, cherry blossoms and oriental music added to the Japanese atmosphere of the South Side initiates' performance at the annual joint meeting of the three S. P. C. clubs at North Side High School. Barbara Uran, with the aid of the committee, spent many hours leafing through books, planning and directing the beautiful ceremony, "A Japanese Wedding." The committee was composed of Luther Procise, Theo Schurenberg, Kenny Scott, Barbara Uran, Bon Silene Craig, Margaret Crankshaw, and Bob Harruff. The result was a beautiful and colorful ceremony, which won first prize for the best program of the three schools. Billie Mauk and Dalton McAlister won the prizes for the best individual performances.

couldn't have come from any place but the February potluck, where food and fun prevailed. At this meeting S. P. C. elected new and capable officers for the second semester. They were: Bob Harruff, president; Bon Silene Craig, vice-president; and Barbara Uran, secretary-treasurer.

The club's capable and versatile director, Margery Suter, completed successfully numerous programs and entertainments with brilliant success. The annual one-act plays were given the seventh period in the study hall in February. In "Columbine," Minnie, a hardened, practical-minded, and cynical young woman, was played by Ann Abbott. "Columbine," a dreamer who was untouched by her sordid surroundings, was played by Jo-Anne Smith.

Also in the month of February Miss Suter directed a play, "The Short Cut," which was broadcasted on South Side night over station WOWO. Bob was played by Bob Harruff, and Steve was played by Kenny Scott.

There were 140 members (think of it!) in the good old S. P. C. this year.

The sun—rising or setting—always shines. And Sunshine Society members, up or down, are pledged to shine. The purpose of the club is best expressed in the Sunshine Creed, which is repeated by the old members when a new one is being admitted. "With love in my heart, forgetting self, and with charity for all, I will make the object of my life helpfulness and kindness to others. I shall try to fit myself to give intelligent service in making my community a safe and more beautiful place in which to live. Thus will my own life become rich and complete."

The two faculty advisers who have so competently guided the society are the Misses Edith and Mary Crowe. Any girl may join. The officers who served the club during the first semester of the past year were Iona Schuler, president; Thelma Erwin, vice-president; Caroline Dirmeyer, secretary; Frances Rygowski, treasurer; Dorothy Zaegel, sergeant-at-arms; and Betty Jean Snyder, Inter-Club Congress representative. Those students who served as officers for the second semester of the school year are: Hazel Noll, president; Jean Hildebrand, vice-president; Dorothy Zaegel, secretary; Eileen Fuelling, treasurer; Mary Ellen Kilpatrick, sergeant-at-arms; and Francile Shepler, Inter-Club Congress representative.

The State Sunshine Society has drawn up a constitution which applies to all of the local organizations. One of the articles in this document states that a meeting must be held at least once a month and that the club must collect dues of at least five cents a semester.

Most outstanding among the club's events scheduled for the past year was the entertainment of other Sunshine Clubs at the annual Fall District II Convention on October the fifth. Representatives from approximately thirty other high school clubs of Indiana attended. The general theme for the convention was

"Scattering Sunshine." The morning program, which was held in the study hall, featured short welcome speeches by Iona Schuler, Mayor Baals, Merle J. Abbott, Miss Pittenger, and Mrs. Sandefur, State Sunshine dean. Mr. R. Nelson Snider gave the principal address of the morning session. Alumnae members of the South Side Sunshine Club presided over discussion groups as part of the program for the convention. After lunch was served in the cafeteria, the guests were entertained by the New Haven Sunshine Society in the study hall. After this entertainment, the Sunshiners attended the football game between South Side and Peru. The annual spring convention, to which the Sunshine Club sent a large group of representatives, was held at Monon.

The South Side Sunshine Club also joined the other clubs of Indiana in making its annual contribution to the Riley Fund. The money that is donated to this fund is used to purchase surgical equipment and other supplies for the Riley Hospital in Indianapolis.

At Christmas time the members had an opportunity to participate in a very worthy project. They went to the Anti-Tuberculosis League headquarters several times just before Christmas to fold seals. They folded thousands of Christmas seals and put them in envelopes.

The Sunshine Club also finds time, in spite of its many service projects, to take part in a large number of social affairs. The Halloween party was unusually successful. At Thanksgiving a very appropriate play was presented; and at Christmas there was a program very fitting to the season. On February 15, the club sponsored a skating party, which was attended by a large number of South Side students. In the Spring the annual Mother-Daughter Tea was the outstanding social event.

Since the Sunshine Society is so necessary to the school, it is well to remember a few facts concerning its beginning. The first club of the Sunshine Society was organized in Crawfordsville High School; the second club was organized in Lebanon High School in 1910. Ours came considerably later.

History Repeats Itself--Social Science Never

BY ROBERT ADAMS

Social Science . . . intelligent members, an intelligent club. Dedicated to promoting a serious interest in the social sciences, this club has long ranked high in school leadership. From a current events study in the fall to a magazine campaign to buy the school a movie machine in the spring, the accent has been on projects of real value.

The club is composed of thirty juniors and seniors of high scholastic standing who have passed rigid entrance requirements.

"Topics of Current Interest" was the theme around which the year's program was constructed. The committee responsible for the fine programs consisted of Dick Helm, chairman; Ann Abbett, and Manuel Rothberg.

At the first meeting of the year, the club touched upon the international relations of countries. Dr. Paul H. Krauss discussed the "Economic and Political Aspects of the Italo-Ethiopian Conflict." This meeting was thrown open to all members of the history, civics, and economics classes who were interested in hearing the talk.

At another meeting an insight into the intricate workings of the Fort Wayne city government was gained. Mr. Gordon Foster, editor of the Fort Wayne "Municipal Booster," read a paper on city government.

The case for the American Legion was presented by Mr. Argo Vegaleus of Fort Wayne Post No. 47 of the American Legion.

"Indiana History," a subject of prime importance to every Hoosier but woefully neglected in the classroom, was discussed by a student well versed in the subject, Mr. Willis Richardson, social science instructor at Central High School.

At Christmas time the club had a potluck supper and party. The committee in charge of the program comprised Robert Storm, chairman; Helen Doenges, and Thekla Leininger.

A demonstration of "Filmosound," a talking moving picture machine, provided an entertaining program for another meeting in a lighter vein. The Math-Science Club was the guest of the Social Science Club at this meeting.

One of the larger projects undertaken by the club for the year was an attempt to organize all high school social science clubs in the state into a state-wide affiliation of clubs of this type.

On Armistice Day, the Social Science Club sponsored an assembly in commemoration of the seventeenth anniversary of the signing of the armistice. Robert Adams, general chairman, introduced Mr. Vern Gingher, former post-commander of the American Legion, who in turn introduced Dr. Miles F. Porter. Dr. Porter delivered an inspiring, militant address concerning youth and the next war.

The officers of the club for the fall semester were: Robert Adams, president; John Bex, vice-president; Manuel Rothberg, secretary; Mildred Foellinger, Inter-Club Congress representative; and Bryce Minier, sergeant-at-arms.

During the spring semester, the club chose for its officers Manuel Rothberg, president; William Schafer, vice-president; Robert Adams, secretary; Ruth Roadcap, Inter-Club Congress representative; and Robert Storm, sergeant-at-arms.

Miss Eleanor Smeltzly and Mr. Wilburn Wilson very capably executed the duties of faculty advisers of the club.

In the spring semester, a magazine campaign was sponsored by the group. It resulted in the securing for South Side, a Victor talking-picture machine.

If ever you notice anyone cutting a copy of the Times in tiny pieces and stamping a neat "Past Due—Please Remit" upon each piece, don't think him crazy, for he is merely fixing point sheet clippings for 1500 Club aspirants.

The 1500 Club is a journalistic club which is the only club directly connected with the Times, the school's weekly publication. Many a Times worker, be he freshman or be he senior, desires membership in this famous club. One gains membership when he has earned 1500 points for the work he has done on the Times. Points are given to students for any kind of work they may do on the Times, from folding papers to being general manager. When a person becomes a member of the club, he is given a bronze pin to signify his membership. This pin is made in the likeness of a linotype matrix and is crossed with a quill. It makes a very attractive pin. This pin is just the beginning. One doesn't stop here. After earning 1,500 points, he strives for 3,000 points. At this time he is presented with a silver pin, which is even more attractive than the bronze; and it makes the owner just a little prouder than before. Now we're just getting nicely started. To be sure, if he attains the 5,000 mark there is another reward. This time it is a gold pin, which brings forth many an envious glance. There is yet another pin to be earned. To be deserving of a gold-jeweled pin, one must have earned enough points to reach the 10,000 mark. This sounds almost impossible, but it has been done I assure you. In fact nine dignified seniors, Ann Abbott, Louis Bonsib, Rosemary Chappell, Bryce Minier, George Anna Martin, Jim Sweet, Mary Anne Fark, Norman Buck, Manuel

Potlucks Seem To Be A Favorite Sport

BY MAXINE HOWARD

Rothberg, and one junior, John Bex, have earned gold-jeweled pins.

The club stands for good journalism and is a method of fostering this ideal into actual practice. The members are entirely composed of members of the Times and Totem staffs.

A club usually has certain work of a rather serious nature. As yet we have been unable to find any for the 1500 Club. It is purely a pleasure club, and its one and only function is to have potlucks—and they really are potlucks! Never has there been a club more noted for its potlucks than the 1500 Club. And why should there be? Since this is the only function of the club, a great deal of attention is given to it. Their potlucks are packed full of fun, frolic, and food. If one doesn't get enough to eat at a 1500 Club potluck, it is his own fault.

The club has four officers. Each is representative of one of the numbers in the name of the club. The president not only represents the number one, but he is also the number one officer. There is the vice-president next who represents the number five. Then comes the secretary, who, although he represents the number equaling nothing, he certainly equals a great deal more in reality. The treasurer, too, represents nothing in the number, but we know that he is really worth more than that. The duties of these officers are just like those of other club officers. However, the tasks aren't as burdensome for the club meets only for its potlucks, which occur monthly.

The officers for this year are: President, Bryce Minier; vice-president, Harriett Yapp; secretary, Ruth Garrison; and treasurer, Jim Sweet.

The club was founded in 1925 as a method of reward for those people who did a little better than the average on the Times and the Totem staff. It has served as an incentive to those interested in journalistic work and desiring to put forth work deserving of a reward.

At present there are just forty-three of the various types of pins in circulation throughout the student body. This is indeed a small number compared to the entire number in the student body, thus showing that it isn't exactly easy to become a member of this club as one might be led to think.

This year three honorary members were taken into 1500 Club. Dorothy Crabill, Helen Anderson, and Bernadette Dygert were distinguished with this honor because they were elected to Quill and Scroll Honorary Society in the fall semester.

Warning: Be Nice To Our Riflers!

BY CLARICE RUDY AND
WILLIAM HERBERMEHL

The gloom of subterranean passages nearly blots the miles of overhead pipe from sight. Around a dirty corner at the far end of a passage Sherlock Holmes and Doctor Watson stealthily peek. Faint voices are heard from far down the tunnel; a point of light comes from the same direction as the voices.

"Hist!" says Sherlock. "There's dirty work afoot!"

Then comes a gun shot! It echoes and re-echoes through the dusty air. Sherlock and Watson rush toward the light. They jump around the corner and face—the South Side Rifle Club in session.

South Side's Rifle Club was organized in the fall semester of 1931. It did not come into prominence, however, until 1932, when the team won the silver cup which is awarded to the winner of the Allen County Rifle match.

The club is made up of two separate groups. One group is composed entirely of boys and is under the direction of Mr. Windmiller; the other group is made up entirely of girls and is instructed by Miss DeLancey.

Steady shooting and a good scoring ability develop skill and good nerves that in later years may be beneficial to the student. At present there are fifty members in the club, twenty-eight boys and twenty-two girls. The two sections practice weekly, the boys on Tuesday and the girls on Wednesday evenings.

The boys' activities for the year extended to eight rifle matches held outside of the school. The record it made is one to be envied by all school teams. This team was successful in seven of its contests but lost one by a very close score to North Side.

The outstanding event of the girls' activities is the outdoor shoot which is held every fall. The girls' section also had a social meeting this spring. It was in the form of a chili supper held at Miss DeLancey's apartment.

The club was first formed by Risher Hall and Jack Wynn with the aid of Mr. Thomas, a former industrial arts teacher at South Side. Both Risher and Jack have graduated, but they often visit the rifle range when the club is there. When Mr. Thomas left, the club was left without a sponsor. Mr. Sidell, seeing the plight of the boys, willingly took the responsibility of being the adviser. Mr. Sidell was well qualified for his work with the team but later, finding himself hard-pressed for time, was forced to give up the position. Again the club was hard-pressed for a sponsor; Mr. Windmiller came to the rescue and willingly donated his spare time to its success.

The club has quite an array of rifles and telescopes. These articles are very important to all members of the organization. The club also awards a six-inch letter "S" to those who attain a required marksmanship record. An emblem, signifying the Rifle Club is placed in the center of the letter.

One hundred eighty points constitute the marksmanship record which must be obtained before one can possess this letter. Twenty points are gained each time a rating is passed, and ten are given for every meeting attended; in this way, the letter is earned. The girls who have thus far earned their letters are Joyce Spencer, Clarice Rudy, LaVonne Cook, and Frances Knight.

Letters, however, are not the only symbols of marksmanship that are displayed upon the person of the various members of this club. A small cross-rifle pin, which is the property of Miss DeLancey, is given to the girl who has the highest score at a meeting. The girl is then allowed to wear this pin until the next meeting is held, at which time it is awarded to the one who happens to be the highest scorer at that meeting. As it is considered by all the girls a great honor and privilege to be permitted to wear this pin it not only stimulates the desire to shoot accurately, but it turns this phase of the meeting into a contest.

The officers of the club for the fall semester were: Vincent Cook, president; Rodney Stair, boys' secretary; Rose Anne Certia, girls' secretary; Jane Loomis, treasurer; Elizabeth Linhart, range officer. The team personnel consists of: Vincent Cook, George Glenn, William Nickerson, Max Goddard, and Bill Hebermehl.

"He Who Loves Music"--Can Love Anything

BY MIRIAM LICKERT

Nearly every day of the year, passers-by on Clinton Street may hear strains of music floating about the atmosphere from that direction of the building near the boiler room. Not that the music is louder than the sounds suggested by boilers—our boilers are quiet—but that our industrious musicians are preparing more euphonic sounds for the ears of the multitude.

Mr. Wainwright is in his third year of directing music activities at South Side; and he is continuing his plan of having the band, the orchestra, the boys' glee club, and the girls' glee club as the four major organizations in the department. Many and varied are the calls that come in to the music department—sometimes for small groups, trios or quartets, often for larger groups, glee clubs or orchestras—and Mr. Wainwright does his best to fill the calls.

A string quartet played before the primary-kindergarten section of the teachers' convention on October 17 and 18. It was made up of Mary Jo Allen, first violin; Georgianna Jones, second violin; Helen Kreisler, 'cello; and Evelyn Lehman, viola. At a joint session, compositions were played by an ensemble comprised of Bob Weihe, violin; Vernon Gregory, viola; Margaret Rehm, 'cello; Margaret Null, flute; and Mryon Jones, clarinet. Also the guests at the Shrine Club were entertained by a mixed quartet composed of Helen Flaig, harpist; Margaret Null, Vera Parker, and June Bly, flutists.

One of the new organizations in the music department this year is the dance orchestra which was formed during the first semester. It has provided music for many tea dances, and it also helped in making the Christmas party in the music room on December 20 a big success. The guests at the party also enjoyed a specialty tap dance which was accompanied by the orchestra.

The chorus and orchestra did their part in adding to the spirit of Christmas. They entertained many busy shoppers and business men with carols during the holiday season.

The South Side Music Department was highly honored in being the first to be allowed to broadcast on the new series of programs sponsored by the Holsum Bakery Company. The broadcast, which took place on Monday, February 17, was given by the entire chorus.

Carrying out the plan used last year, the music department held music assemblies with the usual five-cent admission price. The money that is taken in from these concerts is used for improvements in the department.

The first music assembly was a band concert given on October 29.

J. W. Wainwright, Director

First Row: G. Strahlem, M. Null, P. Kilpatrick, B. Bond, K. Boerger, M. L. Coats, B. Tegtmeier, M. J. Allen, G. Jones, R. Bahde.
 Second Row: M. Bohn, W. Nickerson, J. Bly, E. Lehman, D. Bleeke, R. Wiehe, M. Bandtel, E. Meyer, C. Haught.
 Third Row: B. Kreisler, J. Kelso, C. Thorne, M. Jones, G. Gregory, O. Gregory, J. Meyer, J. Lyons, P. Goodman, W. Cook, G. Jones, M. Rehm.

At this concert, the harp and flute were carefully demonstrated and explained to the student body. This assembly featured a cornet solo by George Glenn. His solo, "Columbia," by Robinson was accompanied by the band. A trio composed of Margaret Null and George Strahlen, flutists, and Helen Flain, harpist, played "Moonlight and Roses."

The second concert on December 20, was planned by Miss Patterson and Mr. Wainwright. The skit, "Christmas Fantasy," was presented with an orchestral accompaniment of "Reve Angelique" by Kamennoi-Ostrow. The chorus sang "Hallelujah Chorus" from the "Messiah," and the orchestra played "Christmas Echoes" and "The Voice of Chimes."

On Tuesday, February 4, the third of the series was held. This was a very unusual assembly since three of the outstanding musicians of Fort Wayne were featured. Miss Luella Feiertag, soprano, and Dr. Robert Mills, basso, sang "Song of Love" as a duet. "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark" by Bishop was a duet featuring Miss Feiertag and Dale Schumaker, flutist.

The fourth concert on February 25, was given by the Central forty-eight piece symphony under the direction of Mr. Gaston Bailhe. Special numbers included a violin concerto by Mendelssohn and a violin, 'cello, and piano trio that played the "First Movement in G Minor" by Chausson.

No doubt, the most outstanding feature of this year's work was the part played by the music department in the vaudeville show which was given with the Girls' Athletic Association. There were two performances of this show given, one in the afternoon, and the other in the evening. This unusual show was under the direction of Miss Alice Patterson and Miss Gretchen Smith of the girls' gym department and Mr. Wainwright of the music department.

The first on the program was "Cowby Songs" by the boys' glee club; and "Pony Ballet" followed, in which Marjorie Clapp, Janet Hartman, Peggy Kilpatrick, Helen DiGregory, Bernadette Shearer, Barbara Sheele, Peggy Woodhull, Marion Patterson, Julia Crabill, Ann Hull, Marjorie Mitten, and Olive Zahn were featured. Next was "Western Yarns" by the members of the boys' glee club; then, the "Square Dance" by Marjorie Mitten, Marion Patterson, Julia Crabill, Olive Zahn, Dwight Frost, Joe Faulkner, and Glenn and Vernon Gregory.

Forensics--A Big Name For "Blowing Off"

BY BONSIENE CRAIG

Demosthenes put pebbles in his mouth to teach himself to speak correctly. South Siders have it on Demosthenes. They need nothing so unpleasant as pebbles to teach them how to speak. In fact, considering their young age, they probably speak better than Demosthenes. And who can doubt it when, instead of pebbles, they have our Miss Benner to teach them how to speak? At least they're not rocky speakers.

Heading the list of public speaking events is the semi-annual extemporaneous speech contest. Fifty-four students were entered in the first contest which was held on January 7 and 8. Nine contests were held during the first day, and one winner from each group was chosen. These winners were Helen Flaig, Sybil Knudson, Dalton McAlister, Manuel Rothberg, Ruth Rose, Leona Menze, Mary Michaels, Gwen Horn, and Rosemary Chappell. The winners in the final contest were Manuel Rothberg and Ruth Rose, tied for first place; Rosemary Chappell, second place; and Dalton McAlister, third place. Louis Bonsib acted as chairman for this contest.

Those placing second in the first nine contests were: Dorothy Golden, Vernon Miller, Helen Kelsey, Bill Fries, Donald Redman, Thekla Leininger, Robert Adams, Helen Doenges, and Charles Hart. Third places went to Dick Helm, Mary Kay Smith, Helen Anderson, Ruth Berning, Tom Jaenicke, Bernadette Dygert, Rebecca Wermuth, Virginia Vesey, Mary Louise Helms, Janet Fisher, and June Haeger.

The spring "extemp" was held April 15 and 16. In this contest there were fifty-five entries. The winners in the ten semi-final contests were: Robert Storm, Verna Holtman, Helen Kelsey, Leona Menze, Rosemary Chappell, Sybil Knudson, Ruth Garrison, Robert Adams, Ruth Gerber, and Ruth Rose. Rosemary Chappell received first place, while Ruth Rose and Leona Menze placed second and third respectively in the finals.

Those people who received gold S's for public speaking accomplishments are Manuel Rothberg, Dalton McAlister, and the city extemp contestants.

Several years ago, the Philatelic Society of South Side was organized for people who are interested in stamp collecting. This club is one of the most recently organized clubs in South Side. It admits to membership any student or faculty member interested in any phase of philately.

The officers for the fall semester were: Homer Miller, president; John Thackery, vice-president; Dalton McAlister, secretary; Fisher Rehrer, treasurer; John Jackson, sergeant-at-arms; and John Thackery, Inter-Club Congressman. Spring semester officers were: John Jackson, president; Dorothy Aldridge, vice-president; Mary Ellen Kilpatrick, secretary; Emily Lepper, treasurer; Rosemary Shea, sergeant-at-arms; and John Thackery, Inter-Club Congressman.

GERMAN CLUB MEMBERS ENJOY TALKING GERMAN

BY RUTH ROADCAP

"Parlez-vous francais?"

No, we don't expect you to, because this is the German Club.

After four years of prosperous activity, the German Club has become one of the outstanding clubs of South Side. The purpose of the club is to attain a greater knowledge of the speech, literature, music, and customs of the German people. With Miss Clara Schmidt as the adviser, the club has been ably guided throughout the year.

The programs at the meetings, which were held every other Wednesday in the Voorhees room, included speeches on German subjects by members of the club, faculty, or people who have visited or lived in Germany or who are particularly interested in the German people.

To begin the activities of the year, the club held a wiener bake at Foster Park. German games and a vocabulary match were the features of an October

The officers for the first semester were: Dick Dochterman, president; Allen Faux, vice-president; Miller Makey, secretary; and Ed Leitz, treasurer. During the second semester, the club was led by Morgan Harrison, president; Fred Meyers, vice-president; Nelson Miller, secretary; and Dick Snook, treasurer. The boys who served on committees and were largely responsible for the success of the club's programs were Paul Boyer, Bill Hoblet, Norman Buck, Tom Makey, Earle Paxton, John Edwards, Dick Dochterman, Miller Makey, and Morgan Harrison. The advisers for the year were Mr. Ward O. Gilbert and Mr. Burl Friddle.

LETTERMEN SHOW THEIR STUFF FOR SOUTH SIDE

BY ED KRUSE

Courting Lady Luck through their thirteenth successful year, the Lettermen's Club of South Side passed 1935-36 boosting South Side and South Siders in athletics and school projects.

The club was founded in the spring of 1923 and was first known as the Varsity Club. There were then fifteen members. This enrollment has gradually increased to the present membership of twenty-two with two honorary members. Its purpose is to unite more closely South Side's athletes and to promote better athletics.

This year the club again had very capable officers. Under the faculty advisement of Mr. A. Verne Flint, the club's activities were run off very smoothly. The officers were: Fred Nye, president; Bud Lee, vice-president; and Joe Close, secretary. Much credit is due them for the success that the club had.

During the course of the year, the club promoted many successful activities. The most important affair of the year for them, however, was the annual Lettermen's Prom held in the Greeley Room on December 14. Besides this, they held two or three banquets, one of which had several prominent coaches as speakers.

All boys who earn letters must live up to several requirements. One hundred eighty points must have been earned in a sport, or sports, to warrant one's having a letter. A boy must also keep his grades up to remain eligible. Honorary letters were given to Morgan Harrison and Dick Dochterman.

The work of the Latin Club has been carried on through the co-operation of the members under the capable leadership of Virginia Gardner, president; Virginia Greiner, vice-president; Constance Haag, secretary-treasurer; and Robert Schimel, delegate to the Inter-Club Congress.

"PARIS IN THE SPRING" IS MORE THAN A SONG!

BY JO ANNE SMITH

One might say that Frenchmen and the members of French Club have something in common—they speak the same language. Supplementary to regular French class work, the club is a veritable bunch of "Frenchmen;" for they speak French almost incessantly at meetings.

To be eligible for membership in this club, one must have studied French at least one semester and must have obtained a grade of B or above. Miss Olive Perkins has been the adviser of Le Cerle Francais since 1932.

In the past, French has been taught at South Side by Miss Mildred Brigham, Miss Sylvia Dennis, and Miss Rose Delancey. At present, Miss Olive Perkins teaches all French pupils.

South Side, hearing of congressional doings so often, just couldn't fail to have a real school congress to inspire us on to better things. Each school group sends a "senator," and these Inter-Club Congressmen compose the group.

In the fall semester of 1935 a constitution was drawn up and accepted by a unanimous vote of all the members. It provided that there be a regular meeting every other Monday, that the members represent the same organization twice in succession, and that there be an election for a chairman and a secretary every semester. Miss Emma Kiefer, Mr. C. A. Bex, and Mr. A. Verne Flint acted as advisers for Inter-Club Congress. For the fall semester, Bryce Minier served as chairman, and Morgan Harrison served as secretary. For the spring semester, Charles Stone was elected chairman, and Theo Schurenberg was elected secretary.

Many different projects have been sponsored by the Inter-Club Congress during the past year. The distribution of Christmas baskets for the needy and the decoration of the Greeley and Voorhees rooms for Christmas were carried out through the co-operation of club members.

In March, the Inter-Club Congress, with the aid of the School Press and Booster Club, held the annual "Get-Acquainted Day," which has proved to be a very worthwhile and popular event among the students. This year's Clean-Up Campaign was begun under the sponsorship of the fall semester members and successfully completed by spring semester representatives.

THEY LEARN TO PULL STRINGS — ON A MARIONETTE

BY GEORGE ANNA MARTIN

Ever since the Egyptian priests frightened their people with small figures carved of wood and ivory and operated by strings, the marionette has developed until it now affords enjoyment to all peoples of the world.

To be a successful member, one must possess skilled fingers, a little artistic and dramatic ability, ambition, and an unusual amount of patience. The success of this club depends upon members who have those characteristics and the valuable aid and instruction of a likewise skilled adviser, Miss Dorothy Magley.

"Little Mr. Picklenose," the first of the club's productions, was given at the sophomore party two years ago, soon after the organization of the group by Miss Dorothy Magley, faculty adviser. Later, "Christmas Carol," by Dickens was given with John Bex and Kenny Scott playing the leading roles. The rest of the cast included Mildred Hoff; Norman Budde, Louise Closs, Robert Weihe, Emily Gardner, and Mary Anne Fark. Other members of the group helped back stage. All spent much time in making the marionettes. A stage was borrowed from Norman Budde, a more experienced member of the club who directs his own performances. Proceeds of the production were used in purchasing material for the stage.

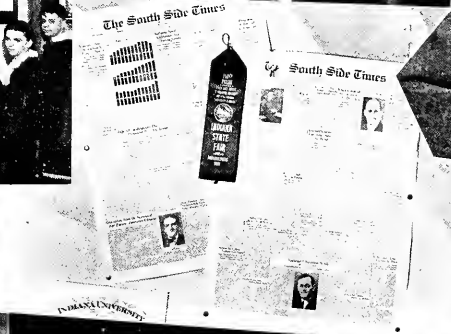

First Row: E. B. Lucas, M. Meyer, G. McIntire, H. Faux, J. Dyer, Miss Magley. Second Row: L. Boyce, H. Walbert, K. Scott, D. Russell, L. Meyer, N. Budde.

"Abracadabra," the most recent production, included the following cast: Kenny Scott, John Bex, Norman Budde, Tom Sellers, Eliza Bess Lucas, Lorraine Meyer, Mary Anne Fark, and Helen Faux. The play went over with great success. The proceeds were used for purchasing material to make more marionettes.

Officers of the club are Kenny Scott, president; Doreen Russel, secretary; Norman Budde, treasurer; Lorraine Meyer, Inter-Club Congress representative.

This club is really growing and, as far as accomplishments are concerned, may rival any other club in South Side.

TIME TAKES TO LEGS

Pork Passers

BY NORMAN BUCK

Completing the season with a record of five victories, three losses, and one tie, South Side's gridders, hindered by a lack of experience and shortage of capable reserves, emerged winners in more contests this year than in the 1934 season. However, though the Archers won more games than they had the previous season, two of their losses were in city-series contests.

Thus, for the first time in three successive years, the Green lost the city crown. Two of their three North-eastern Indiana Conference games were against city opponents. The Archers wound up in fifth place in the conference race with one win to their credit.

As in the previous season, South Side's team was characterized by a rather strong defense and a weak offense. In an attempt to cover up this defect, the Archers frequently resorted to an aerial attack. In their games against North Side and Central, the Archers found this offensive weapon bottled up; and, as a result, could not gather the necessary scoring punch.

Coach Lundy Welborn built his team around a few experienced veterans. Most valuable of these were the three linemen: Ellenwood at end, Nye at tackle, and Ostermeyer at center. In addition, Bud Lee at full-back turned in a good kicking job throughout the season.

During their entire season, the Archers defeated Van Wert, Peru, Central Catholic, Columbia City, and the ball to the three-yard line. However, four attempts carried the ball to the one-foot stripe; and South Side took possession of the ball on downs.

On the following Saturday, Van Wert came to Fort Wayne to meet the Archers. The Green, however, proved themselves poor hosts by pushing over four touchdowns and making good on two extra-point attempts to win 26 to 0. They scored twice in the third period and twice in the final quarter.

The Archers gained a complete variety of results for their first three games, a win, a loss, and a tie; then they bowed before the strong Mishawaka eleven, 18 to 0. The Maroon staged a second-quarter drive that netted them three touchdowns and the margin of victory.

THE TOTEM 1936

South Side passed its way to victory over Peru, 13 to 6. The game marked the first loss of the season for the Circus City squad. Their aerial attack working almost to perfection, the Green completed eleven out of twelve attempts. South Side scored in the first quarter on a pass from Lee to Ellenwood. Lee place-kicked the extra point. In the second period, Peru scored on a long pass. After four passes had placed the ball in scoring position, Ellenwood scored again, this time on an end-around play.

After a week's rest, South Side opened their city series competition with a 25-to-7 victory over Central stituted his reserves; the Eagles then pushed over their lone marker.

Central's Tigers swamped the Green 27 to 7, to gain an edge of one game in their thirteen-year rivalry. The Tigers scored midway in the first quarter; but South Side rallied to tie up the score in the second period. This touchdown marked the first time the Tigers had been scored upon all year. However, the Bengals redeemed themselves by scoring three more touchdowns, one in each quarter, to win by a wide margin.

Catholic. The Green pushed over a touchdown in each period, yielding long enough to allow the Irish to score in the closing minutes.

North Side administered the first city series loss to the Green when they swamped the Kellyklads 26 to 7. The Archers took an early 7-to-0 lead but lost it when the Redskins ran rampant around their ends.

South Side got back into the win column the following Saturday with a 34-to-7 victory over Columbia City. This proved to be the Archers' only N. E. I. C. triumph of the season. With a large margin, provided by six touchdowns and a safety, Coach Welborn subside of the ledger when they journeyed to Howe to meet the Military Academy team. They returned home with a 24-to-0 victory. After relying on passes all season, they turned to a running attack in this final game. This attack proved successful, the Green getting one score in the first period, two in the third, and one in the last.

Near the close of the season, two Archer veterans, Ellenwood and Ostermeyer, were honored by being placed on the mythical All-City eleven. Fred Nye, South Side's captain, was chosen for a place of honor on the second team.

Putting All Their Shots In One Basket

BY DICK HELM

"Cowboy" Friddle, as we have been told our new coach is called by his friends, certainly exhibited cowboy tactics during the basketball season here at South Side. Unacquainted with South Side and South Side students, he staged a real basketball rodeo on our floor and amazed everyone when he "roped" many of his toughest games in his first year.

With only two members of last season's varsity ten available to serve as a nucleus around which to build a team, Coach Burl Friddle, former Franklin College star and member of the immortal Franklin "Wonder Five," assumed his duties at South Side with very poor prospects for a good season before him. Since he used a style of play different from that employed by Coach McClure, former Archer mentor, Coach Friddle spent most of the season drilling his charges on fundamentals. He demanded the perfect execution of details on the part of every player. He stressed the development of an air-tight defense just as he had at Washington High where he produced the state championship squad of netters in 1930.

The 1935-36 Archer net season was really a successful one. The Green played twenty-six tilts during the season, including a Christmas invitational meet and the sectional tournament. In its twenty-six games the Green net aggregation scored 701 points while holding their opponents to a total of 626 markers. A total of thirty or more points were rung up on the Green on only four occasions during the entire season. The South Side netters were forced to relinquish their share of the N. E. I. C. title and the city scholastic title which they had held jointly with the Central Tigers.

In their debut, the Friddlemen humbled Butler's Windmills by the score of 38 to 17. Hall and Speaker, diminutive forwards, led the Green attack. On the next evening the Green journeyed to Michigan City where they received a 27-to-22 setback at the hands of the Red Devils. Coach Friddle used nine men in this contest as he experimented in an effort to find the best combination of players.

On the following weekend the Green divided their pair of N. E. I. C. conflicts. With a veteran team of Bluffton Tigers as their opponents, the Green were unable to stop an avalanche of baskets in the first half of the contest, and they subsequently bowed to the Wells County tossers by a 28-to-16 count. On the next evening the Archers played a greatly improved brand of ball as their accurate shooting smothered the Auburn Red Devils 44 to 25.

After a week of intensive drill on shooting to improve their sniping ability, the Archers hung up two more victories. Pierceton's Cubs were first to fall before the South Siders, whose last-half rally earned them a 39-to-25 decision. In their next encounter the Green marked up their initial city series victory as they downed the Irish of Central Catholic 29 to 20. The Archer scoring was fairly well divided with Hines and Ellenwood pacing their teammates with seven markers each.

South Side's efforts in the Christmas invitational meet played on the southern hardwood went for nothing as they dropped both of their tilts. Playing a cautious style of ball, the Archers held their own against the Central Tigers for three quarters only to have the Blue and White basketeers score thirteen markers in a final period spurt to win by a 29-to-18 count. In the consolation game North Side's zone defense bothered the Green considerably, and the team fell before the Nulfmen by the score of 29 to 25. In the tilt with Central, Joe Close, Archer center, suffered a badly wrenched ankle, which kept him out of action for several weeks.

Getting their January campaign under way, the Green engaged the North Side Redskins in what proved to be one of the most thrilling tilts of the season, the Redskins finally emerging victorious by an 11-to-10 count. Two more defeats were marked up for the Green the following week as Kendallville and Decatur captured N. E. I. C. tilts from the Green.

Inability to stop Stamm, Shinbeckler, and Overdeer of the Columbia City Eagles, as they went on a first-half scoring spree, cost the South Side netters another N. E. I. C. setback.

Trailing Central by five points as the final period began, South Side's Archers staged as brilliant a rally as any in the preceding games between South Side and the Tigers and won by a 29-to-25 score.

Berne's Bears and Froebel of Gary nosed out close wins over the Green on the following weekend. The Friddlemen bounced back into the win column as they bested the Huntington Vikings 33 to 12.

The Archers turned in two impressive exhibitions as they captured N. E. I. C. engagements from Hartford City by a 28-to-21 score and North Side by a 26-to-16 decision. Coach Mendenhall then led his basket tossers to a 32-to-21 victory over the Green in a tilt which gave the Tigers the N. E. I. C. crown and the city scholastic championship for the season.

Goshen's Redskins measured the Friddlemen by a 30-to-26 counts. Central Catholic then suffered a 40-to-22 defeat at the hands of the Archers. The South Side netters concluded their regular schedule with a 22-to-8 win over Central of South Bend.

Entering the sectional tourney, the Friddlemen advanced to the finals. The Archers won over the Hoagland Wildcats, champs of Allen county, and Woodburn's entry 30 to 18 after a tight game. In the semi-finals South Side's netters defeated Decatur 37 to 25.

In the final game the Archers bowed to the Central Tigers after a hard-fought battle by the score of 50-23.

So, maybe track is a real American sport after all. At any rate, be it American or Greek, our South Siders played the game like champions.

South Side's track squad, although hampered by a lack of new material and weak in comparison to teams of previous years, made a fairly good record for the past season. Building the team around a small number of veterans and a minimum of new material, Coach Lundy Welborn rounded out a well-balanced track club.

The boys who came from last year's squad were Bud Feichter, Charles Stone, Bill Epmeier, John Suelzer, Jim Dern, "Porky" Schoenefeld, Ed Leitz, Ed Kruse, Luther Procise, "Ab" Hinton, Bill Kruse, Ned Alexander, and Nelson Miller.

Getting started a little late in the season, the team did not attend the South Bend Indoor Relays or the State Indoor meet. The boys, however, dug their spikes in hard to capture the first dual meet of the season with Goshen, 66¹/₂ to 33¹/₂.

Tracking was one of the best known Indian sports. That game was not like our modern games of "track," but in many ways ours may have been fostered by the older game. The Indian had to be fleet of foot and nimble before he could win his game.

Club-Swinging He-Men From South Side

BY BOB LOCKE

They say that golf is a rich man's game. But not very many rich men would any longer have anything to do with the sport after just one or two games with our South Side golfers.

Enjoying a very successful year, the golf team established the best record that any golf team in this school has ever had. In the entire 1935 season the Archers played 51 games, winning 39, tying 5, and losing 7.

The team last year consisted of four members: Robert Lohman, Sam Rea, Harold Schmidt, and Bob Fowler. The first game of the season was played on May 2 when the Archers tied with Elmhurst by the score of 3-3. On May 8 the Archers tied a fast Bluffton team with a score of $5\frac{1}{2}$ - $5\frac{1}{2}$; South Side defeated the Huntington Vikings on May 9 by a margin of 9-2. On May 16 South Side defeated Bluffton by a score of $7\frac{1}{2}$ - $4\frac{1}{2}$. On May 22 the Green emerged victor over Huntington by the margin, 4-2.

The Archers again accepted an invitation to play at Syracuse in an annual tournament held there on May 11. The team placed second with Mishawaka, the score being very close, 346-348. This was a very good record, as there was a large number of excellent teams in the competition.

Next, the Archers traveled to Bluffton where they engaged in a conference tournament. In this tournament, the Archers came out victor with 346 to the nearest competitor's, Bluffton, 363.

On May 31 South Side defeated Marion 10-2. On June 5 the Green played the final game of the season with Marion. This match resulted in a tie of 6-6.

The lowest score of the season was seventy-eight, made by Harold Schmidt at the Brookwood Course.

The four members that will make up this year's team are: Harold Schmidt, Ray Ballweg, Bill Stewart, and Eddie Reeves.

The coveted position of number one man fell on the reliable shoulders of Harold Schmidt, who has been on the team ever since he entered South Side. Schmidt, because of his previous experience, has developed fine play under pressure. The second member of the team will be Ray Ballweg, a new member to the team. Although he has had little experience in tournament, the team will count on his services. The third position will be held tentatively by Bill Stewart. He also is a newcomer to the team. The fourth man will be Eddie Reeves. As Eddie is only a freshman, a great deal will be expected of him in future years rather than this year.

The members of the present team will be at all times subject to challenge from any member of the school.

The team has quite a heavy schedule this year as plans have been made for twelve matches and a participation in the state high school tournament, which is to be held at Indianapolis on May 12. The team is looking to this meet with great hopes. Tournaments held in the city are generally played at the Foster Park

Course or the Brookwood Course. The members who are to make up the team are selected in a tournament held each year at the beginning of the golf season. The four boys with the lowest scores make up the team.

A member of the team must be on the team for four years in order to earn a regular varsity letter.

The game of golf has been added to the list of varsity sports in South Side in comparatively recent years. The game, claim authorities, is one which develops muscles not exercised in other types of sports. The matches afford great enjoyment for the players and for the backers of the team as well. Although the team is made up of only a few members, it is a competitive affair; and since the team members are constantly open to challenge from any member of the school, they are forced to keep in excellent form and are also compelled to train thoroughly and faithfully.

Most of the members of the 1936 team have had a number of years' experience in playing golf, many of them gaining their first experiences with the game of golf through caddying at nearby courses.

As all who have tried their hand at the game know, many hours of diligent practice are necessary before one may become proficient at the game. It is for these reasons that the members of the athletic department of South Side have decided to classify this sport as a major, varsity sport.

So our golfers really have to get out and work, possibly dig up the turf a little, and make a scientific affair of this thing called golf. They are not "dubs" at the game, but make those scores that we sometimes dream about.

"Soup To Nuts" Is The Intramural Menu

BY MYRON JONES

Did you ever sit in the gymnasium at lunch time, waiting for the next class, and wonder what those fellows out on the floor, clad in suits resembling "B.V.D.'s," were doing chasing around the floor after a round ball and throwing it at hoops. That, in case someone hasn't told you, is the game of basketball; and those boys were probably playing a game in one of the many intramural tournaments.

Cross country not only introduced the intramural sport season, but also ushered in an entirely new enthusiasm for intramural sports. Approximately eight hundred boys have taken part in minor sports this year in spite of the fact that raising the points required for letters from 100 to 125 did not daunt the boys who are interested in these sports.

Louis A. Briner, boys' physical education director, designated the period from September 14 to October 17 for the twenty-five entrants of the cross country team to train themselves for the last run which would determine the winners. The honors were carried off by Robert Klotz and Clarence Elliott in the heavyweight division, and Robert Ferguson and Don Bazzenett in the lightweight class.

At the first meeting of the intramural athletes held in September, one hundred twenty-five boys signed for tag football. The boys were divided in two classes, heavyweight and lightweight. Nine teams signed in the heavyweight class, while three entered the lightweight division.

In both classes the tournament was hotly contested. In the heavyweight class, the Archers and the Chumps were running neck and neck. The Archers finally won. In the lightweight division, the Spartans won the championship, with the Badgers closely trailing them.

The sport of tag football, by the increase of thirty participants over last year's entrants, proved its popularity.

Volleyball again was a very popular intramural sport. During the entire volleyball season 162 boys took part. The number of teams entered totaled 23. The teams were given a chance to practice each day during the fifth period. After the teams had drilled for several weeks, Mr. Briner announced that a tournament would be played. The tournament lived up to the expectations. All of the games were well contested. In the final fray the Cardinals defeated the Archers in the heavyweight division, while the Spartans defeated the Dukes for the lightweight championship.

Fall tennis proved to be a popular sport, although it was hard to play off the matches due to inclement weather. An interesting and popular feature of the tournament was the indoor court used during wet weather.

Altogether thirty-eight boys took part in the tournament, twenty in the heavyweight class and eighteen in the lightweight division. Hubert Klopfenstein won the championship in the heavy class when he took a close match from Ercher. In the lightweight, Allen Garrison emerged victorious without much trouble.

Albert Hinton won the heavyweight golf championship, while Edward Reeves ran off with the lightweight title. There were only ten contestants.

Boxing, as usual, was a tremendous success. Due to the possibilities of injuries, no official tournament was staged; but those who wished to enter a small contest were permitted to do so. Titles were won by Blanks, Durbin, Bosserman, Feichter, Zehr, and Squires.

Wrestling also proved to be popular. Seventy-six boys competed during the season, which lasted six weeks. Titles were taken by Hargan, Griffin, Bosserman, Feichter, and Miller.

Foul throwing rated high on the popularity list this year, by attracting seventy participants. John Allen won the heavyweight league, tossing in fifty-eight fouls out of a possible eighty. Clyde Nussbaum stood out in the lightweight division, making fifty-six out of a possible eighty.

The handball tournament, which was held in the "cellar" just to the west of the gymnasium, was split in three divisions, 100 pounds and under, 100 to 120 pounds, and 120 pounds and over. The lightweight division was won by Don Kolkman. The middle-weight class was taken by Nussbaum, and the heavyweight by Kelso.

Handball—A. Kelso, H. Roberts, C. Nussbaum, F. Knight, D. Rose. Bowling—K. Allway, R. Tapping, W. Zelt.

Foul Throwing—C. Nussbaum, J. Allen.

The bowling tournament, which was held at Scott's bowling alleys, held more interest than usual. Eleven boys were present to break up the pins, but it was Robert Klotz who succeeded in hitting the "center" for strikes and spares the most times.

Basketball proved to be the most popular sport of the entire intramural program. Sixty-four teams with a total of three hundred twenty-four players took part. The heavy-weights were divided into ten leagues of four teams each. Each team played three games in its league. The highest from each league entered the finals, which were in the form of a direct elimination contest. The Archers, a smooth-clicking squad, walked away with the heavy-weight championship.

In the middleweight class the same system was used with fifteen teams divided into three leagues. The Indians tomahawked their way through this league with comparative ease.

The lightweight division consisted of nine teams, which were divided in two leagues. The round-robin system was employed, and the Nameless carried away the honors.

For spring sports Mr. Briner offered track, tennis, golf, and baseball. There were many entrants in these activities as the spring weather made everyone want to get out-of-doors and enjoy himself.

Mr. Briner introduced intramural sports when he first came to South Side in the fall of 1929.

G. A. A. Girls Keep Fit And Keep Smiling

BY MARGIE HOWER

Someone has started the popular belief that girls "swing like a rusty gate" when they play baseball. That someone though, couldn't have watched our G. A. A. girls play baseball. It's a recognized fact that they know how to swing a baseball bat, and certainly if any do swing like a gate, they don't get rusty.

This year G. A. A.'s membership was over 300.

In September the annual tennis tournament was held. The class winners were Violet Porter, freshman; Betty Eisenacher, sophomore; Margaret Ruhl, junior; and Bernadette Dygert, senior. The doubles class winners were Betty Showalter and Betty Neeb, frosh; Mary Ellen Blauvelt and Betty Eisenacher, sophomores; Leona Menze and Margaret Ruhl, juniors; and Rowena Bevington and Aldena Disler, seniors.

In the interclass tournament in the singles, Betty Eisenacher defeated Bernadette Dygert, and Margaret Ruhl defeated Violet Porter. Margaret then proceeded to conquer Betty and thus become the queen of South Side tennis. Then in the doubles Leona Menze and Margaret Ruhl triumphed over Mary Ellen Blauvelt and Betty Eisenacher for the school crown.

In the first major sport of the year, Pauline Molin's freshman speedball team became the champion. In the hockey tournament Marge Hower's senior team won the junior-senior honors, and Barbara Raymond's team came out first for the sophomores. Dorothy Bloemker's volleyball team was the freshman champ, Betty Eisenacher's was the sophomore champ, and Marge Hower's was the junior-senior winner.

Of course, in the winter everyone fixed her attention on basketball. In some very interesting tournaments, Norma Martin and Virginia Menze's teams tied for frosh honors, Eleanor Rarick and Betty Eisenacher's teams tied for sophomore honors, and Marge Hower's won the junior-senior title.

The juniors upheld the tradition of winning the honor tournament. The members of the winning team were Leona Menze, captain, Margaret Ruhl, Margery Ruhl, Anna Marie Baumgartner, Edna Disler, Betty Beyrau, Ada Schuelke, Helen Humcke, Winnie Locker, Bette Harnish, Dolly Scheele, and Dorothy Scheele.

A very large turnout and a very good time was had in tumbling, baseball, and track.

This year for the first time in its history the G. A. A. held a swimming meet at the Y. W. C. A. The many startling performances helped to make it a success. Individual honors went to Marjorie Hower with 20 points, Betty Jo Wilkinson with 18 points, and Virginia Porter and Barbara Scheele with 11 points each. The class standings were sophomores 29½ points, freshmen 28 points, seniors 20 points, and juniors 19½ points. The very capable judges were Miss Hilda Schwehn, Miss Mary Jane Helping, Miss Margaret Suiegel, Mrs. Kathryn Clem, Miss Gretchen Smith, and Miss Alice Patterson.

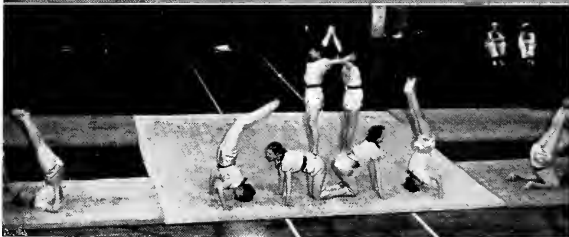

One of the most outstanding events of the first semester was the Halloween party. Prizes were awarded to Martha Franz for the prettiest costume, Doris Duffy and Velma Connert for the funniest, and Gwen Roberts for the most original. There was a very enjoyable program given which included a humorous skit in the form of a mock wedding between Miss G. A. A. and Good Sportsmanship. Miss Smith and Miss Patterson also did very well in an impromptu dance to the strains of the "Blue Danube." The rest of the evening was spent in social dancing and refreshments.

This year some very important amendments to the G. A. A. constitution were made. They are: (1) A swimming meet will be held once a year in the fall. The points are to be awarded in the same manner that track points are awarded. (2) All second semester students entering school will retain their athletic standings as follows: 10B students will remain with the freshmen, 11B students will remain with the sophomores, and all 12B students will remain with the juniors. (3) Beginning with the South Side Annual Recognition Service of May, 1936, the required number of points for a letter is 1500 points,

Another phase of the physical education department is the Student Leaders' training class. This is made up of the girls who are very much interested in athletics and who show signs of leadership. They keep notebooks, help in the gym classes, and officiate at G. A. A. games. Those who were in the class in the spring semester are Velma Connett, Anna Marie Baumgartner, Mervyn Bohne, Janet Hartman, Dorothy Foltz, Anita Affolder, Loretta Weikert, Betty Burhenn, Beth Ellen Chadwick, Catherine Moring, Eleanor Rarick, Ruth Seifert, La-Donna Gerber, Dean Hockensmith, Marjorie Moore, Marjorie Cartwright, Marjorie Hower, Maxine Morrison, Frieda Schubert, Bette Harnish, Mildred Close, Margaret Green, and Enita Snavely.

The annual G. A. A. Recognition Service was held in January. It was opened with a talk on sportsmanship, and Ruth Berning read the Law of Sportsmanship. Following this Leona Menze read the ritual, after which Miss Smith presented the freshmen their numerals and Miss Patterson gave the upperclassmen their letters and numerals. Those who received their letters are Ruth Adler, Virginia Busse, Martha Franz, Delores Miller, Edith Pawlisch, Dorothy Roudebush, Mary Shaffer, Mildred Close, Edna Disler, Ruth Eylenberg, Bette Harnish, Evelyn Kruse, Hazel Noll, Ada Schuelke, Betty Schultz, and Jeanette Braun. After the awards Alice Mae Siebold, a former G. A. A. member, made a speech for the girls.

This year another club was added to the physical education department. It is known as the South Side Lettergirls' Club, and any girl who has earned her letter "S" through G. A. A. is eligible for membership. Its purpose is to further an interest in the origin and development of athletics and the part women have played in it; also it is to act as a booster club for the G. A. A.

The club members put on a pep session before the Central game. It also had a very enjoyable and successful skating party.

The officers who assisted in piloting the G. A. A. through one of its most successful seasons are: Marjorie Hower, president; Marjorie Cartwright, vice-president; Leona Menze, secretary; Enita Snavely, manager of sports; Virginia Menze, freshman representative; and Barbara Raymond, Inter-Club Congress representative. Miss Patterson and Miss Smith, faculty advisers, who are always willing and ready to help, greatly aided the officers.

"The Dude Ranch" was the theme of the vaudeville which was given by the music and girls' physical education departments. It was one of the most colorful affairs staged. The characters were cowboys and cowgirls from the ranch, cinema stars from Hollywood, and Indians from a neighboring reservation.

The cowboys were dressed in chaps and ten gallon hats, and the girls in plaid shirts and split skirts. The cinema stars, who danced, sang, and played musical instruments, wore either formals or sport clothes. The Indians wore the traditional costumes of the Indian maidens, but they came back later in shorts, in great contrast with their former costumes. The entire production was under the direction of Miss Smith, Miss Patterson, and Mr. Wainwright.

Another performance put on by the physical education department was the annual exhibition. This year, unlike other years, there was no central theme followed. In it there were American games, dances, and fancy skaters. Then there were Scottish games and dances. The girls taking part in these wore the traditional Scotch clothing. There was also some natural dancing, creative dancing, and modern gymnastics. A Russian folk dance done in Russian costumes was a great attraction. There was a ballet dance, a tap dance by the dance club, a short basketball game, and musical stairs. Of course the ever welcome tumblers made a bright spot in the program. This was under the direction of Miss Patterson and Miss Smith.

Ear-Crisps

IT seems that in a certain English 8 class last fall, Mr. Null was teaching poetry and found that it was necessary to teach his class a little mythology which they should have learned long before (and this an "x" class . . . Tch, Tch!). Anyway, quote Mr. Null, "What did the severed head of Orpheus call out, supposedly, as it floated down the river?" To which question, no one knew the correct answer. But, never daunted, came a feeble reply from one of the members of the class. "I ain't got no body!" was what Dick Dochterman said.

IF all the students who sleep in Mr. Murphy's class were laid end to end, they would be more comfortable.

HERE is one that no one will believe really happened, and maybe I don't blame them. Anyway, those two wits (half right, anyway) Myron Jones and Bryce Minier are what some call writers. At least they pretend to be. For gosh knows how many reams of paper they have wasted trying to learn. Anyway, Bryce says to Myron as he stopped writing and looked dreamily out of the window . . . "I guess that my pen will have to stop itching." "Why?" . . . says Myron. "I'm out of scratch paper, Jones," says Minier, nonchalantly. "I'll 'itch-you for that!" yells Myron . . . and so on into the night.

ISN'T it Mr. Gilbert that gives his tests on the honor basis? You know . . . each one takes seats three apart and in alternate rows.

JIM Sweet says it took him four years to find out he had absolutely no talent for writing literature, but by that time he was famous.

Smudge's Camera Contest

Right — Fort Wayne's garden spot, an exquisite rendezvous on the banks of the dear old St. Mary's River in Foster Park where our students spend their pleasant summer Sunday afternoons. Courting is such fun in such surroundings. Second prize.

Above—Candid photography is the newest thing, so we have given the prize this month to this snapshot which catches Manuel Rothberg in a characteristic pose, as the responsibilities of the world at large rest upon his shoulders. He seems to be making a terrible struggle of it too!

Above—Here we see the original Beau Arts Ball of South Side High. Only this was a senior fun fest in which former principal Harris, Mr. Gould, Mr. Hull, Mr. Voorhees, Mr. Null, Miss Fiedler, Miss Demaree, Miss Rinehart, Mr. Chappell, Mr. Rothert, Mr. Murphy, and Miss Ley are principal figures. Third prize.

Tweet-Tuwoo!

Time Marches On

When we were freshmen,
We were happy, o gee!

When we were sophomores,
We were too dumb to see!

And when we were juniors,
We were too filled with glee!

But now that we're seniors,
We know that there isn't any Santy Claus, and you've got To work hard for what you get
In this cruel, old world!

They were seniors in their last week of high school.

Absently he looked into the water as it flowed along. "Another week and we'll be parted. I'll be here in Fort Wayne, and you'll be gone far away. You'll forget all we've meant to each other."

"Oh, no," she broke in, "I'll never forget!"

He looked into her eyes and she looked into his. "Say that again," he said, "say that you'll never forget me!"

The week passed, and their ways parted. Each became interested in new things as time went on. But one day their paths crossed once more as they were introduced at a party.

"What was the name," she inquired. "I didn't quite get it."

"Jones," he answered.

"Oh yes,—didn't I know you when—I believe it was in high school. Yes, it was in high school!"

"Yes," he answered, "those were happy days!"

"Thick Weather," a photograph by Sheldon Hine, pictured at left is a photograph with a history. It was taken on a foggy night in January, 1935, at Clay Street and the Nickel Plate Railroad crossing.

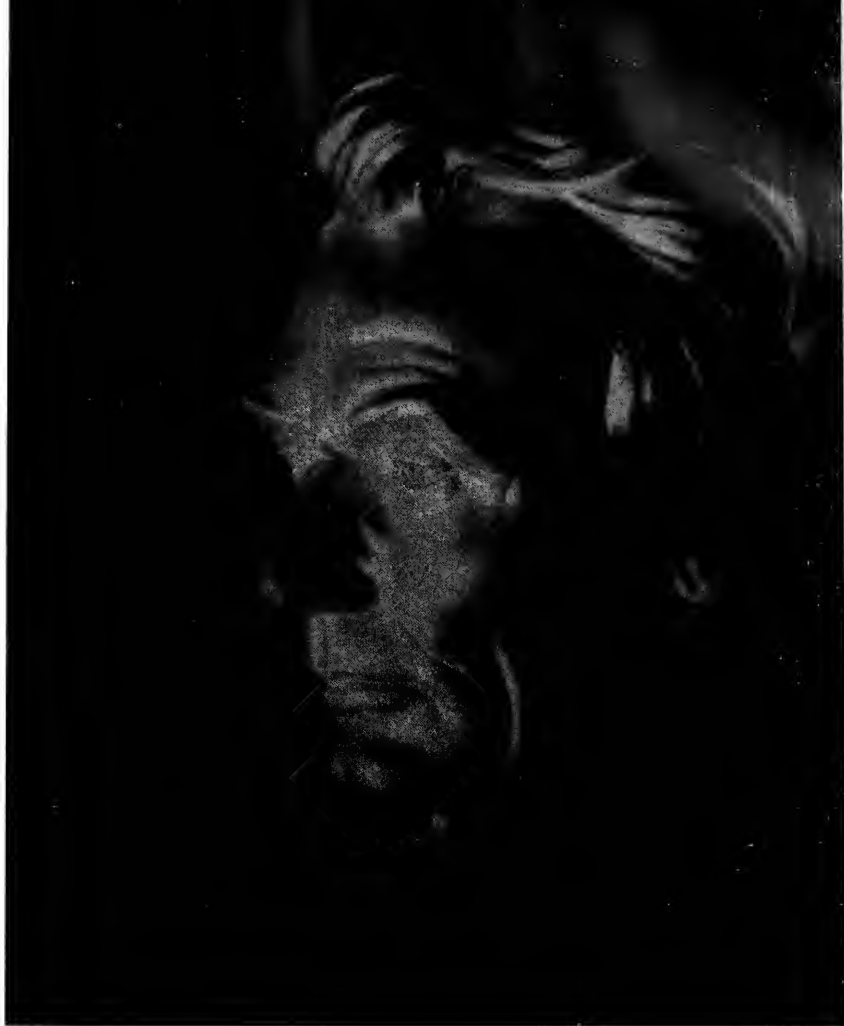

Since then it has been exhibited at the following International Salons of Pictorial Photography: Pittsburgh, Pa.; Princeton, N. J.; Portland, Maine; Midland, England; Toyko, Japan; San Antonio, Texas; Detroit, Mich.; Dundee, Scotland; Wilmington, Delaware. It has been published in "U. S. Camera," All-American Photographic Annual, representing about 150 of the outstanding photographers in America. It is included in the U. S. Camera traveling salons which have been shown in most of the larger cities in North America, the British Isles, and Continental Europe.

The Museum of Science and Industry of Chicago has recently requested a print of it for their permanent collection of photographs.

Some of Sheldon Hine's work is included in this yearbook. The photographs on pages 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12, 128, and other pages are his handiwork. At the right is pictured this South Side alumnus who has done much for this year's Totem. He has made possible some of the beautiful feature photographs in this book. Mr. Hine is a modest person and won't admit of his greatness. Nevertheless, he has and certainly will continue to bring fame in photographic circles to Fort Wayne.

Harris Offset Press

In view of the ever-increasing interest in and wide application of Offset Lithography, we are showing one of our four offset presses . . .
The only LITHOGRAPHY DEPARTMENT in the city of Fort Wayne

Stop . . . before you order just printing. It's advertising results that you should be buying . . . The Fort Wayne Printing Co. knows how to produce printed advertising that will bring the results you should be getting.

A conference with a Fort Wayne Printing Co. representative, before any printing or typography is started, will often save costly changes and delay . . . Now it may be offset that best suits the job . . . Next it may be letterpress. Knowing intimately the advantages of each and realizing the effect desired, the well-equipped printer, from his experience, can select for your job the process it commands.

The equipment of the Fort Wayne Printing Company is complete in three printing processes . . . namely Offset, Process, and Letterpress.

We suggest your consultation with us before art, paper and other details are definitely settled . . . you to dictate the effect desired and we to get it for you.

the Jefferson way

The other day a girl came into our studio to have her picture taken. She was a pretty little girl, but she wanted us to make her look like Greta Garbo in the picture.

It wasn't that Greta Garbo isn't good looking. She is. But this little girl was not Greta's type, much as she would probably have liked to have been; and she was much prettier as just herself.

So we photographed her just as she asked—well, almost as she asked. We took one picture Greta Garbo style and didn't do so bad. Then we persuaded her to try a straight-faced front view that mothers and dads like. And then a beautiful picture of this pretty little girl in an extreme, but lovely, pose.

She didn't buy the Greta Garbo photo of herself even though, as I have said, we did a good job of imitating Greta. She ordered fourteen pictures. Two were the straight-faced, front view photographs, and twelve were our creation—a beautiful photograph of the real girl—not cheap flattery but a picture that looked like herself. And she was proud to own it. For we know that everyone needs a little flattery now and then—and we know when to stop.

We can duplicate this feat with you or your friends. We can make you look like Clark Gable or Myrna Loy, but best of all we can make you look like YOU!

The Last Laugh

our book.
It's not just what we had hoped it would be,
it's not what we had dreamed of, but we have spent a lot of good time working on it and have got muddled more than once in those crazy printer's terms. We did our best,
and some still, small voice told us that that was all we could do.
Please handle with care your criticism of this book, because after all, it is near and dear to us. One thing, by gosh, that we are certain of. It surely killed our sleep. I'm going out now and take a good, long snooze.

Anyway, even if you don't like this book, the laugh is on you because we have the two dollars you paid for it.
